Senators Norris and Borah Take Up Cudgels in Defense of Warden of Atlanta Prison.

MONTANA EXPOSE BLAMED ON SNOOK

Prison Executive Is Ready To Resign Place If Department Continues Pen Espionage System.

Senatorial investigation of the planting of department of justice spies in federal prisons loomed Monday night when Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, republican, and friend of John W. Snook, warden of the Atlanta prison, about whom a national fight is centering, and Senator George Norris, republican, Nebraska, and chairman of the senate judiciary committee, took up the cudgel against the system and indicated that action would be taken at the special session of congress called for April 15.

In addition to the probable senate probe of the affair, the following were developments Monday in the espionage system invoked by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of federal prisons:

Developments of Day.

1. Virtual admission of department of justice officials for the first time that imprisonment of Joseph Montana was a plant and absolutely refused to give the name of the agent.

2. Charges by the department of justice that the Atlanta warden is responsible for the publicity incident to release last Wednesday of the latest "plant," Joseph Montana.

3. Virtual ultimatum to the department by Snook that if he is to remain in the service of the department the practice must be discontinued because he can not retain his self-respect and serve under such conditions.

4. Announcement by department officials, who declined to be quoted that unless the warden could remain at his post and work under the announced policies of the woman assistant attorney general to continue the espionage system, his resignation would be accepted gladly.

5. Hints that the department may ask Snook's resignation unless he acts promptly and first.

Democrats May Aid.

6. It is expected that republicans will be joined in the probe of the affair by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, and Congressman Thomas F. Bell, of Georgia, and John J. Boylan, of New York, all democrats. Both Bell and Boylan were members of the special congressional investigation committee which last fall gave the Atlanta warden a clean slate and praised him for the efficient administration of the institution. All three have scored the policy previously.

Snook is a protege and almost a life long friend of Borah. It was Borah who obtained his appointment, and dispatches from Washington Monday night indicated that Snook had taken the matter up with the senator and that the latter will await arrival of papers before entering actively the fight for his retention.

If the senate decides to go into the matter, and there was every indication that it will, the matter of falsifying government documents will be one of the principal matters to be considered.

Expose of Spy System.

Expose of the spy system was first made by The Constitution when "Peter Hanson" transferred to Leavenworth by the department to obtain his release. The second "plant" was made public by The Constitution Saturday morning.

The "Hanson' case aroused national interest and caused scathing comment on the floor of congress when Congressman Boylan denounced it as an effort to introduce in America the Russian chekah.

Several members of congress have excoriated the scheme as un-American and not to be tolerated in democratic America. They have held that false commitment papers however obtained by government are just as much illegal.

DRIVER DESCRIBES THRILL OF RIDING AT RECORD SPEED

Segrave Says He Had Premonition Something Terrible Would Happen; May Try Again.

Ocean Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Major H. O. D. Segrave tonight sat in the safety of his hotel room and described to newspapermen the thrills he experienced as he shot his Golden Arrow motor car over the beach at 231.36246 miles an hour.

At this speed his auto was nothing more than a blinding flash before a background of ocean green—and at this speed fears gripped his heart that something would happen—that the cards were stacked against him and that death was ready to deal itself an ace from the bottom of the deck.

Forebodings, a whispering voice, something told him that he was in more danger than he had ever been before. This voice spoke loudest when his car struck imperfections in the beach, catapulted 30 to 40 feet through the air only to land safely and to be repeated again and again.

240 Miles Absolute Limit.

"I really expected something serious—you know what I mean—a skid—a bump—that would have placed me in danger.

"At least 11 times during the run back and forth I ran into the water. I could feel the car slow up each time my wheels dipped into the surf.

"You can't do more than 240 miles an hour on this beach because there isn't enough room for a sufficiently long start. If I decide to run again I'll take another mile start. I took a four-mile start today but that wasn't long enough. I was still picking up speed when I crossed the finish line.

"I am not satisfied with the record I set today. My car will do 240 miles an hour under ideal conditions and I would like to see it driven that fast. We are here to set a record high enough to stand for several years and I will have to confer with J. S. Irving, designed of my car, to see whether I'll run again even if White does not break my record," Segrave said.

Segrave's statement tonight, after he had calmed somewhat from the tension he was still under immediately after the race, does not jibe with one he made when questioned then.

Inclined To Try Again.

He stated that he was through with racing forever unless White beat his today's record during the present meet.

"The greatest credit of this race goes to Captain Irving who designed my car.

Major Segrave said he did not think the record he set today could be set much higher on the beach here, because of the poor visibility caused by mist which was kicked up by the surf and the shortness of the course. He said his visibility today was only about three-quarters of a mile.

"My inclination was to run again because I know this car has more speed," Segrave continued.

"I am satisfied I can hang up a record of 240 miles an hour. I have brought this job so far from England that I don't want to leave the present record standing as it is.

Segrave said the reason he ran through so much water was because he found the sand harder nearer the surf than higher up on the beach.

"At one time," he said, "I attempted to run higher but got into soft sand which caused me to have considerable difficulty with steering until I got back near the water where it was harder."

Major H. O. D. Segrave, British speed king, flashes past the camera at 231.36246 miles per hour, a speed almost incomprehensible and beyond the ability of the human eye to register clearly. But the camera caught him as clearly as if he had been motionless. 2 MEN BADLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Condition of Brewster and Moss Reported To Be Critical—"Hit-Run" Driver Sought by Police.

Two men were in serious conditions at Grady hospital late Monday night as a result of the day's automobile accidents while police were pressing the search for the two alleged hit-and-run drivers who Sunday and Monday figured in accidents in which three persons were slightly injured. A third accident victim still was in a comatose condition at the hospital as a result of injuries received on March 6.

R. P. Brewster, of 1173 Williams street, was in a critical condition shortly before midnight as a result of internal injuries received early Monday, when the automobile he was driving crashed into a tree on Gordon street, near Ontario avenue.

Moss Struck Down.

A. M. Moss, of 951 Drewry street, suffered a fracture of the skull Monday afternoon when he was struck down in front of 135 Marietta street, by an automobile operated by J. D. Thomason, of the Bellwood prison camp. Moss was removed to Grady hospital where his condition was regarded as grave late Monday, while Thomason was at liberty under $1,000 bond on reckless driving charges.

Ira Bolton, of LaGrange, still was in a comatose condition at 11 o'clock Monday night, shortly after he had passed the hundredth hour of his unconsciousness. He suffered a fracture of the skull last Wednesday night when he was struck at Courtland and Decatur streets by an automobile operated by L. S. Pissick, of 866 Washington street. Pissick was released on $1,000 bond on reckless driving charges following the accident.

Winder Doctor Hurt.

Dr. Edgar Delaperriere, of Winder, suffered a badly wrenched back late Monday afternoon when he was thrown from the automobile in which he was riding with his brother, Cliff N. Delaperriere, when the machine was struck by a "hit-and-run" motorist at Courtland and Ellis streets. He was released after receiving treatment at Grady hospital.

Deputy Sheriffs Charles E. Poole and J. M. Rolader were driving past the scene of the accident and seeing the one car speed away, gave chase in their car only to have the fleeing driver elude them in the heavy traffic. A white man was driving the car, witnesses said.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wolfe, of 560 East avenue, suffered minor cuts and bruises Sunday night when the auto in which they were riding collided head-on with another machine, driven by a negro who sped away after the crash, according to police reports. The accident occurred at Highland avenue and Fort street.

O. E. Gay, of East Point, victim of a street car-auto crash in East Point Saturday, still was in a serious condition at Grady hospital late Monday, despite the fact that his injuries were not at the time regarded as extremely serious.

Hazel Fischer, 6-year-old girl, who was struck by a Central of Georgia train in East Point Friday morning, Monday night was reported to be steadily improving at Grady hospital. She suffered a fractured skull and left arm.

CURTIS ARRIVES IN MIAMI; WILL VISIT LASKERS

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Charles Curtis, vice president of the United States, arrived in Miami at 6:15 o'clock tonight for a stay of several days at the Miami Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lasker.

He was greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Lasker, and by Mayor Louis F. Snediger, of Miami Beach, and Mayor E. G. Sewell, of Miami. The reception was informal, in accordance with wishes previously expressed by Mr. Curtis. "I'll probably be here for two or three days," he said in response to queries as to the length of his first visit to this section of Florida. "I do not know just yet what I will do, but I am certain it will be something of a recreational nature."

ASK REFERENDUM ON SCHOOL PLANS

Voters of the city of Atlanta will be given opportunity to decide whether they want city and county schools combined, city schools returned to administration of city council with a board of education appointed by the mayor and ratified by council or whether they desire the system to remain as at present if the action of members of the Capitol View Civic league and the Sylvan Hills Improvement club is approved by the special composite committee appointed to solve the financial problem incident to maintenance and operation of the city system.

More than 350 persons attending a joint session at the Capitol View Masonic club voted Monday night unanimously to ask the committee to submit the three proposals to the voters. They also voted to ask a referendum as to whether the junior high schools be continued.

C. L. Woods, of the Sylvan Hills organization, presented the resolutions.

J. Ira Harrelson, school commissioner from the fourth ward, defended the present administration, declaring that the system is getting too much adverse publicity and that it seems to be coming mainly from members of general council.

Those who attended the session also voted unanimously to oppose any tax increase in any form.

Robert F. Pennington, George Longino, Jr., and Byron Bettis, all aspirants for the post of Fulton county commissioner to succeed the late Captain George M. Hope, spoke in behalf of their respective candidacies or were represented.

The organization voted unanimously to ask city council to grant a franchise here to the Southern Natural Gas corporation and also unanimously approved another paper providing for abolition of the authority of the Georgia Public Service commission in setting fees for public utilities in Atlanta.

The latter resolution would give city council authority to fix charges for gas, electricity, street car fares and telephone rates. It was offered by Walter N. Gallaher, president of the Fourth Ward Civic association.

Driving his beautiful 12-cylinder machine at a dazzling pace, Major Segrave eclipsed by 23.81 miles an hour the former record of 207.55 set here last year by Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, in the 36-cylinder Triplex owned by J. M. White. The new mark also surpassed by 28 miles an hour the record of 203 which Segrave set here in 1927 with his Sunbeam Special.

Time For Mile.

On his first official run north Major Segrave literally burned up the course when he negotiated the measured mile in 15.55 seconds for the amazing speed of 231.51125 miles an hour. His second trial, made southward over the course, was clocked at 15.57 seconds for a speed of 231.21387 miles an hour. His average elapsed time was 15.56 seconds and his average two-way speed was 231.36246 miles an hour.

The two trials, which were timed and sanctioned by the American Automobile association, were without incident and were staged under only fairly good weather conditions before thousands of spectators, who lined the sand dunes for miles parallel to the course. Visibility was not perfect, however, and the beach course was a little rough in spots. A brisk east wind was blowing directly off the ocean, which tended to help Segrave keep his machine from running too far out on the course while traveling at such a tremendous speed.

Electing to make his first official run north over the course, Major Segrave drove his powerful car southward over the beach at a clip of 177 miles an hour to make sure that the machine was working perfectly. Mechanics made a hasty, last minute check of the giant creation, filled the cooling system with ice and pronounced it ready for the official trials.

Segrave Starts.

A moment later the telephone in the judges' stand jingled and the voice of a track attendant at the starting point announced that the youthful driver was set for his fast and dangerous ride down the hard-packed sands, which the receding tide had leveled out to an adament hardness.

"O. K., let him," said Odis Porter, official timer, who had taken his position at the timing instruments together with T. E. "Pop" Meyers, head judge, and Warren Baker, assistant timer. Val Harsnape, secretary of the contest board of the automobile association, was stationed in the pits at the edge of the course.

When word was received that Segrave was ready to start his trials, the spectators were on their feet in

ARGUMENT HEATED OVER POCKET VETO

Mitchell Defends Traditional View Before Supreme Court in Hearings on Unusual Case.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Scenes reminiscent of historic arguments before the supreme court in years gone by were enacted in that dim capitol chamber today by Attorney General Mitchell and Rrepresentative Eummers, of Texas, with the validity of the pocket veto involved in a precedent-making case.

One important measure which might be affected by the court's decision is the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution.

Mr. Mitchell, who prepared the government's case as solicitor-general, defended the traditional view that a bill not acted on by the president within 10 days of a congressional session is dead. He asserted 120 pieces of legislation had been killed in this manner in the nation's history and would be resurrected if the pocket veto practice were declared invalid.

The present case involves the right of the Okanogan and other Indian tribes of the state of Washington to sue the government in the court of claims over land alleged to have been taken from them without compensation.

Mr. Sumners, ranking democrat on the house judiciary committee, said he represented a majority of the house and his committee in opposing the stand of former President Coolidge in utilization of the pocket veto. He described as far-fetched the government's stand that bills disapproved could be returned to the house where they originated only when that body was in session, declaring it was feasible for the president to return them to an agent of the house just as bills passed by congress are sent to an agent of the president.

Under the constitution, bills not acted on within ten days of the adjournment of congress are dead. William S. Lewis, for the Indians, contended that the word adjournment meant only adjournment at final sessions, a view directly opposed by the attorney general.

Lewis said the ten days might be construed to mean legislative days adding that under this construction the ten days would extend into the closing session. The attorney general held the constitution obviously meant ten calendar days with Sundays excepted. Mr. Sumners, contended congress should have the benefit of the presidential objections to bills to aid it in determining whether vetoes should be overridden.

Mexican Rebellion Declared Crushed; Aguirre Captured

TRIBUNAL ACCEPTS ROOT'S FORMULA FOR COURT ENTRY

Geneva, March 11.—(AP)—The Root formula was tacitly accepted by all jurists today as the basis for a new protocol for adherence by the United States to the world court of justice. During the general discussion of the first day's session there was evident a feeling of necessity for reaching a permanent solution of the problem which has engaged international attention for more than three years.

The United States wants to join the court. Other nations want her there. It now is only a question of ways and means. Hardly had the discussion been launched, however, when there rose to the surface the old difficulty of successfully arranging for American membership in a court which has certain affiliations with the League of Nations, of which the United States is not a member.

The United States itself raised this matter in the recent Kellogg note and virtually asked that her rights be safeguarded in event that the league assembly or council decided to modify the powers of the court or to ask new things of it. This was deemed a difficult situation to meet in principle, but in practice most jurists seemed convinced that the difficulty was covered by the Root formula.

Leaves Point Unsettled.

Some of them swiftly pointed to the fact that Elihu Root's proposal did not concern itself with that unsettled international question of whether the league council should have a majority or unanimous vote of its members in asking the court for an advisory opinion. Sir Cecil Hurst, of Great Britain, made the point that when all is said and done, the United States will resign from the court if it does not like any new attitude of the league toward the court.

The British jurist had deposited a revised draft of the Root formula, which Mr. Root, after reading and approving, wanted to know who had put in. "I am the guilty party," interjected Sir Cecil, and a ripple of laughter enlivened the otherwise dry proceedings.

Professor W. J. M. Van Eysing, of the Netherlands, emphasized that in its relation to the United States the juridical aspect of the court at The Hague and the political aspect of Geneva should be distinctly differentiated.

A second proposal introduced by Sir Cecil Hurst provided that if the league covenant or rules of the United States against demands for advisory opinions in cases in which it had an interest, the United States would have the right to resign.

The jurists are expected to draft the new protocol for American adhesion, but it was expected this would have to be submitted to an international conference of the court members.

PRESIDENT OR NOT? HOOVER UNMOVED BY ERROR OF TAFT

Washington, March 11.—(United News.)—Chief Justice Taft made a slip when he administered the oath of office to President Hoover at the inauguration ceremonies, but the white house does not seem to be concerned.

A check-up made on the movietone of the ceremony today by a United News representative disclosed that the chief justice substituted the word "maintain" for "protect" when he swore in the new president.

In presenting the oath, the constitution says:

"Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation," and because of this injunction, the question has been raised as to whether Mr. Hoover is president, by the letter of the law.

The white house declined today to comment upon the mistake, when the question was raised as to whether the president would have to take the oath again. In administering the oath, the chief justice quoted from memory.

ELSIE JANIS HAS CHANCE, DOCTORS SAY OF ILLNESS

Paris, March 11.—(AP)—Elsie Janis, American stage star, was fighting a gallant battle for life tonight with the chances favoring victory, in the opinion of her doctors.

A report given out by her physicians was to the effect that another 24 hours would be decisive.

The congestion in the right lung was stated to be the disturbing factor while the appendicitis symptoms were less pronounced.

GIL EXPECTS END IN SHORT WHILE

Mexico City, March 11.—(AP)—The government tonight announced that its troops had caught up with the rebel General Urbalejo, fleeing from Canitas, Zacatecas, and had taken away 135 of his men. The general escaped, however, with the few soldiers remaining loyal to him.

The same communique announced the capture of rebel General Simon Aguirre in the southern part of the state of Vera Cruz. Several of his officers were also taken but his brother, Jesus M. Aguirre, who led the revolt in that state, was not captured. Simon will be court-martialed and probably will face a firing squad, as have other rebel leaders captured.

Rebels Reach Sinaloa.

The government acknowledged that the rebel advance guard of 400 or 500 men had reached the town of Quila in their southward push through the state of Sinaloa. The rebels had announced capture of the town yesterday. Reports that this rebel force had taken the important port of Mazatlan were denied.

Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc, who acted as the government spokesman, said nothing had been reported from the main federal army led by Secretary of War Plutarco Elias Calles. This army was known to be continuing its northward advance on Torreon and Dr. Puig said he was not surprised to hear rumors that General Gonzalo Escobar had evacuated that Coahuila city. He said, however, he had no definite report of their withdrawal.

No Details of Capture.

The federal troops commanded by General Juan A. Alamazan were said to be advancing from Monterey on Torreon, but had not yet been able to reach Saltillo because of slow progress in repairing the railroad tracks.

The government gave no details of the capture of General Simon Aguirre and said that it was not decided whether the officers captured with him also would be court-martialed.

Dr. Puig told the newspaper correspondents that the Sonora rebels, including the column that has advanced into Sinaloa under General Roberto Cruz, number less than 5,000. He said that the government was informed that General Armenta and his troops were part of the regular Sonora division, had not joined the rebels.

Revolt Backbone Broken.

The government tonight held the opinion that the backbone of the revolution had been broken, and in this most of the best informed foreign observers here concurred. The government looked for the fall of the rebel cities of Torreon and Durango, possibly without serious battle, within 48 hours. It sees no chance of a rebel victory and believes that within a week the situation will be merely one of wiping out scattered groups in the states of Chihuahua, Sonora, and possibly Coahuila.

Georgia's Swollen Streams Are Becoming Normal Again; Newton Is Still Inundated

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Georgia's flooded rivers were swiftly emptying their surplus waters into the sea tonight and within the next two days were expected to be back within their normal banks, according to Weather Forecaster von Herrmann here.

The Chattahoochee already was nearly back to its usual stage and the Flint, although still well out of its banks at places, was subsiding fast. The Altamaha also had fallen considerable. Von Herrmann said, and he expected no further rise along its course.

Residents of Newton and West Bainbridge, on the Flint, were preparing to return to their homes, many of which were deserted in the face of rising water.

At Newton the river had started its recession after what was described as the second worst flood in many years, leaving silt-covered floors and walls in many of the residences. It will be almost a week, according to D. P. Powers, editor of Baker County News, before the town of 400 residents is entirely habitable again and already home owners have started negotiations with contractors for removal of their houses to higher ground before they are reoccupied.

Wholesale inoculation of the community against typhoid fever is planned by the state board of health in view of the fact that it will be weeks after the river has subsided before the low places will have drained off flood water.

At West Bainbridge the Flint reached its highest point during last night and late today had started to subside. Conditions were expected to be normal again within a few days.

At Brunswick, which the Altamaha river partly inundated last night and this morning, waters were said to be subsiding. As a precautionary move sand bags were placed along the coastal highway there yeserday and a drag line was used to strengthen the embankment in weak places.

Water was reported to be rising near the towns of Ludowici and Townsend, on the same river, early today, but Von Herrmann said tonight that danger was passed.

V. M. I. HEAD WILL QUIT SCHOOL WHEN YEAR IS FINISHED

Richmond, Va., March 11.—(AP)—The Times-Dispatch tomorrow will say that it has learned from General W. H. Cocke, superintendent of the Virginia Military institute at Lexington, Va., that he will relinquish his post with that institution at the close of the present scholastic year, provided the board of visitors accedes to his request.

The Times-Dispatch will say further that it has learned from sources in close touch with V. M. I. affairs that Major General John A. Lejeune, former commandant of the United States Marine Corps, is under consideration as a likely successor to General Cocke.

3 MEXICAN FLIERS BEING INSTRUCTED AT U. S. SCHOOL

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Navy department officials said today that at the request of the state department, three Mexican fliers were being given a course of instruction in navy type planes at the Anacostia air station.

It was explained that this had no connection with the present rebellion in Mexico, but was the result of a request made by the Mexican government some time ago after Mexico had bought nine navy type planes from the Chance-Vought Airplane corporation. In such cases, where the foreign government requests it, it is customary to give the fliers who are to handle the planes a short course to familiarize them with the operation of the craft.

BRUNMARK ADDRESSES FIVE POINT LEAGUE

Relation of Merchandising Control to Advertising Is Discussed.

The third dinner meeting of the Five Point league, recently organized advertisers' group, given Monday night at the Biltmore hotel, was marked by an interesting address given by W. J. Brunmark, director of merchandising for the Davison-Paxon company.

Mr. Brunmark used as his subject the relation of merchandising control to advertising. He discussed the importance of styling in merchandising and the close relation between the stylist and the buyer. He closed with the prophesy that in the not distant future time and space elements in merchandising will be virtually eliminated by the use of television and radio ordering and aircraft in delivering.

Herbert Everett, general chairman of the league, presided at the meeting and opened by introducing Russell Whitman, publisher of The Atlanta Georgian-American, who gave a short talk preceding the introduction of Mr. Brunmark. Following the principal address Mr. Everett threw the meeting open for discussion and the resultant "round table session" lasted for some time.

Among those at the meeting were: E. V. Hungerford, of the Southern Bell Telephone company; J. H. Lide, of the Westinghouse Electric company; C. Gordon Anderson, of the Davison-Paxon company; Claude Grizzard, of the LeGette Letter Service; Leonora Anderson, of the J. P. Allen company; Luther S. Taking advantage of a real touch of spring Monday, which brought warm sunshine and a welcome absence of the proverbial March winds, Atlanta pilots did a lot of flying at Candler field, commercial fliers as well as those pleasure bent making the upper elements thick with airplanes. Air mail schedules were adhered to save in one instance, the northbound plane waiting in New Orleans for a somewhat belated ship with the Texas mail.

J. B. Price, division traffic manager for Interstate Airlines, Inc., whose territory was expanded to take in Chattanooga, will return in a mail ship today after a two-day inspection trip of his new domain. It is understood that Mr. Price will make weekly air inspection trips along the route over which he has jurisdiction. J. M. Wulpi, another division traffic manager for Interstate, was in Nashville, Tenn., recently, conducting an extensive publicity campaign for the purpose of increasing air mail poundage at that point, which is located on the Atlanta-Chicago route. A definite mail poundage increase resulted from Mr. Wulpi's visit, it was said.

Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth ward, Monday indicated that he would seek prompt action in city council looking to appropriation of $100,000 for immediate purchase of Candler field. Mr. Berman pointed out that the city's option on the property expires April 1, 1930, and that after that date the city could retain the property only throught the generosity of its owners, Asa G. Candler, Inc. The councilman expressed his willingness to let the question be submitted to the voters of the city if it were deemed necessary, stating that he believed that the electorate readily would approve the purchase. He added that air mail operators are holding up on construction plans at the airport, pending the city's action on the purchase.

Pat Bancett, parachute jumper for a flying "circus," which has been spending some time at the Thomasville airport, had a narrow escape this week when his 'chute fabric split just after he had left the plane. Bancett was precipitated to earth much more rapidly than scheduled, but, miraculously enough, escaped without serious injury. Thomasville is said to be becoming extremely air-minded, a number of the local youths having started flying instruction at the hands of the "circus" pilots.

A striking picture of the tremendous increase during the past year in the carrying of passengers by air is contained in a summary of the aeronautical activities of 1928, issued Monday by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Air transport companies engaged in the carrying of passengers in this country last year operated 294 planes and flew a total of 10,472,024 miles on regularly scheduled routes. These figures show an increase over 1927 of 420 per cent in the number of passengers carried and 100 per cent in mileage flown.

During the past year, the summary continues, 23 new passenger lines, aggregating 6,451 miles in length, were inaugurated, and there were 16 new mail routes established or extended, increasing the total mileage by 5,929 miles. Nine express lines were started with a total of 2,151 miles. This tremendous gain was accompanied by a three-fold increase in airmail poundage, 3,632,059 pounds being carried last year. It was pointed out that at the end of the year there were 15,128 miles of airways in the United States and that of this total 60 per cent was lighted and otherwise equipped for night flying. Mail planes representing 22 companies on 33 lines were flying an average of 27,848 miles every 24 hours, it was shown.

Seth Low and associates, who bought Roosevelt field, at New York, a week ago, also have bought Curtis field, which adjoins it, it was reported in news dispatches from New York Monday night. In neither case has the price been made public, but Roosevelt field had been held at $2,750,000, it was stated.

It is reported by the department of commerce at Washington that Darien, Ga., has proposed the establishment of a modern airport. Other southern points for which fields are proposed are Galax, Va., and Norfolk, Va.

PEN "SPY" SYSTEM PROBE BY SENATE

gal as if they were falsified by individuals.

"I can not remain in the service and retain my self respect if the espionage system is to be continued," Mr. Snook said.

SNOOK'S RESIGNATION MAY BE DEMANDED.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
(Special Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, March 11.—Aroused by the latest disclosure of one of its undercover men having been planted in the Atlanta federal penitentiary, word came from the department of justice today indicating that the resignation of Warden John W. Snook may now be demanded at an early date.

While declining to be quoted, officials of the department let it be known that Snook is being held responsible for the revelation last week that the prisoner committed under the name of "Joseph Montana," of Cincinnati, alleged to have been sentenced to three years on an auto theft charge, was in fact a department of justice secret service operative who had been planted in the Atlanta penitentiary for spy work.

When shown press dispatches from Atlanta quoting Snook as threatening to resign if the department continued its policy of planting men in his institution, officials made it clear that his resignation would be accepted gladly. It was then intimated strongly that a formal request for his resignation may be forthcoming shortly if he does not act first.

First Admission.

The latter information was regarded as significant in that it was the first time department officials have been willing to admit that there was the prospect of Snook being relieved of his position, although his official head has been slated for the execution block for some months due to the strained relations existing between the Atlanta warden and Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt.

Still there is a chance that supporters of the Atlanta warden may come to his rescue and protest to Attorney General Mitchell over the head of Mrs. Willebrandt, who is in charge of all federal prison affairs. Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, made an effort to see the new department of justice head today but Mr. Mitchell was engaged in argument before the supreme court.

The Georgia senator left for Atlanta today without seeing the attorney general. After reaching Georgia and getting first hand reports on the situation he indicated that he might take some direct action.

Meantime the department continued its policy of silence with respect to the case. No official would consent to make a statement for quotation and everyone absolutely declined to reveal the identity of the undercover operative planted. The only information forthcoming on this point was that "Joseph Montana" was not the "prisoner's" real name, together with the statement that he had not been planted for undercover work against Warden Snook but "for the purpose of investigating the morale of the inmates there."

Also it was stated that former Attorney General Sargent, who steadfastly refused to answer letters on the subject, had approved the policy during his administration and gave Mrs. Willebrandt authority to act accordingly.

Mrs. Willebrandt was back at the department today after spending the week end in New York. She refused to be interviewed, however, like all the rest and sent word to newspaper representatives that she had nothing to say for the moment.

As for the visit here last week of Thomas H. Wilcox, head of the department of justice force at Detroit, who figured in the initial plant, disclosed by The Constitution, there was nothing forthcoming in Washington to explain his presence there. Wilcox left Atlanta in company with the mysterious "Montana" but no one at the department would say whether the latter came on to Washington with him.

CINCINNATI LAWYER WILL PUSH PROBE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 11.—(Special.)—"I propose to present a written statement to the Cincinnati Bar association requesting an investigation of the published report that Joseph Montana, alias John Martin, alias J. D. Peavey, recently released from the Atlanta federal penitentiary after having served less than half a month of a three-year sentence, imposed by the federal court here, was an undercover man for the department of justice, sent to the prison as a 'spy' to ascertain conditions there," said Attorney Joseph B. Derbes Monday.

"I know nothing about the facts in the case, but if the newspaper report is true it seems to me to be an abomination for the United States government to resort to such tactics," said Derbes. "If the prisoner did not commit the crime of violating the national motor vehicle theft act to which he pleaded guilty, not only did he commit perjury, as he was under oath when pleading guilty, but the person who swore to the warrant for his arrest also committed perjury. Then what about the testimony before the United States grand jury that resulted in his indictment?

"I feel sure that neither the district attorney nor the United States judge knew anything about the prisoner being an undercover man or United States government 'spy.' If the United States judge had been aware of any such conditions he could have imposed a minimum penalty of one year and a day, instead of three years."

BORAH INTERESTED IN ATLANTA PROBE.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Senator Borah, of Idaho, is showing an interest in the Atlanta penitentiary situation revolving about the administration of Warden John Snook.

The senator said tonight, however, he preferred to make no comment on the complaint of Snook against the use by the department of justice of under-cover agents in the penitentiary. He indicated he expected the arrival of some papers bearing on the case and until he had inquired into these he did not care to comment.

SENATOR TO DEMAND SNOOK CASE PROBE.

BY BASIL MANLEY.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(Special.)—At the opening of the special session of congress the judiciary committee of the senate will be asked to investigate the alleged use of spies and under-cover men in the federal penitentiaries by the department of justice, it was learned today.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has repeatedly denounced this system of espionage, is expected either to introduce or support the resolution directing such investigation. Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, says that if such a resolution is adopted his committee will make a prompt and thorough investigation of the practices complained of.

Montana Case Starts Demand.

Demand for investigation by the senate arises out of the allegation that Joseph Montana, who has just been released from the Atlanta penitentiary on orders of Assistant Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt, after serving less than one month of a three-year sentence, was in reality an undercover agent of the department of justice. This prisoner was released last week in the custody of Thomas C. Wilcox, one of the principal agents of the department of justice, who figured prominently in connection with the case of William Larsen, another under-cover agent who was committed to the Atlanta penitentiary last year under the name of "Peter Hanson."

It is not proposed that the senate should cover again the ground covered by the special house committee on conditions in federal prisons, which visited the Atlanta penitentiary and reported favorably on the administration of the institution, but should concern itself with the legality and desirability of the spy system said to have been inaugurated in the penitentiaries during the past year. This system, which has been repeatedly defended by former Attorney General John C. Sargent and Assistant Attorney General Willebrandt, consists in the placing of secret service agents in the prisons, under the guise of convicted criminals. This involves preparation of false commitment papers which, it is charged, is possible only with connivance of federal court officials.

Points To Be Covered.

The investigation will seek to cover the following points:

1. When and by whom the system was inaugurated?

2. The extent to which it has been utilized and the number of agents of the department of justice who have been placed in the prisons in pursuance of this plan?

3. Determination of responsibility for preparation of false commitment papers, under which agents have been placed in federal penitentiaries?

4. Justification offered by the department of justice for maintenance of this system of espionage?

Senator Borah, who denounces this system as un-American and an attempt to introduce into the United States the methods of the Russian chekah, declares that he has been unable to find any legal warrant for such practices.

Calls Practice Illegal.

Senator George W. Norris, who has also made a personal investigation of the alleged spy systems, declared that in his opinion it was not only illegal but is creating a precedent which is extremely dangerous.

In an interview with the correspondent of The Constitution Senator Norris said: "There are two phases of this system, as I understand it, which seem to require the attention of congress. The first is the practice of sending men to the penitentiary on false committment papers. If it is possible either with the connivance of court officers or otherwise to put agents of the department of justice in prison without complying with the formalities of indictment, trial and conviction, it seems to me that a precedent is being created which might well have the most serious consequences. Second, if I am correctly informed, we find that men duly entered upon the prison records as criminals are being released upon the mere orders of officials of the department of justice.

Danger Is Seen.

"While I have no doubt the department of justice is employing this system exclusively for what it regards as desirable ends," Senator Norris continued, "it must be clear that such practices open the way for dangerous abuses. If the department of justice can secure false commitment papers for one of its agents, the time may come when unscrupulous officials might be tempted to utilize the same irregular process to send innocent persons to prison. Similarly the practice of releasing prisoners on the mere order of an official of the department of justice creates a precedent which might easily be availed of by an unscrupulous official to secure the premature release of a convicted criminal.

"I believe that this system should be thoroughly investigated by congress. If there is any justification for the employment of such a system in the penitentiaries we ought to create a legal method by which they could be placed there and by which they could be released when their mission is accomplished. If on the other hand there is no sufficient reason for employment of such extraordinary methods of investigation then congress should take whatever steps are necessary to put an end to such practices forever."

Nervous Breakdown Blamed By Kent Mack, Thomasville Resident, for Disappearance

Missing Lumberman Returns After Being Found in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Thomasville, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Kent E. Mack, Thomasville lumberman who disappeared February 8 and was recently found in Corpus Christi, Texas, attributed the affair upon his return here today to "a complete collapse of nerves and body" after severe business strain.

On the day of his disappearance Mack filled a business engagement in Tallahassee, Fla., but failed to show up for a second engagement in another city. He was located in Texas by a traveling representative of a New Orleans business house after an intensive search in south Georgia and north Florida on the theory that he might have met with mishap or foul play. He was returned here by his brother-in-law, Homer Williams.

Mack's physical condition now was said to be good, but he will remain in complete retirement for a time to recover from the effects of his breakdown.

In a statement today Mack recounted the trip to Tallahassee and said:

"I was very tired and it was my intention to return to Thomasville, but in some way I cannot account for, I drove toward Pensacola. From there I went from place to place. The only reason for my going and staying seems as best I can think, due to a complete collapse of nerves and body."

Mack's family returned to the donors a fund raised by Thomasville citizens to prosecute the search for him.

LEGAL MACHINERY IS PUT IN MOTION FOR MANLEY TRIAL

Counsel for W. D. Manley, former president of the Bankers Trust company, Monday was notified by Solicitor General John A. Boykin that the ex-banker's trial on charges growing out of the collapse of the Bankers Trust company would be called for trial on April 9. Mr. Boykin said that he had informed Marion Smith, of counsel for Manley, to that effect.

Manley was convicted under the fraudulent bank insolvency act, but the conviction and sentence was set aside by the United States supreme court when it held the act unconstitutional. The new trial of Manley will be based on other charges, there having been a number of indictments returned against the banker.

A court fight over the ability of Manley to stand trial is in prospect, as the banker has been confined to his home on Paces Ferry road under a physician's care ever since his previous trial, and efforts to bring him into either superior court or federal district court failed when physicians said he would have to be brought in on a stretcher.

CIVITAN SPEAKERS TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR BIG MEETING

Plans for entertaining the annual convention of the International Organization of Civitans in Atlanta this summer will be discussed by prominent speakers at the regular weekly luncheon of the club to be held at noon today on the fourth floor of the Atlanta Athletic club. An address by Dr. A. V. Henry, ceramist of the Georgia Tech faculty, also will be an outstanding feature of the luncheon.

The plan of having one member of the club discuss the international convention each week was adopted several weeks ago at the suggestion of Lionel H. Keene, southern manager of the Loew theatrical interests. The speaker scheduled to discuss this subject this week is Shad Shadgett. The speaker at the last meeting was Cecil Alexander, also a prominent member of the club.

The Atlanta Civitan organization is working on a definite plan to make the annual convention of the international organization one of the biggest conventions scheduled for Atlanta this year. Prominent men from all parts of the world will be present and many of them will appear on the program.

LOCAL INVESTORS LEARN OF CRASH OF BEAUTY TOUR

Stockholders of the International Beauty Tours, Inc., an Atlanta organization, Sunday heard of the crash of its first venture—a tour of the country by a dozen imported beauties—from Howard Lichey, formerly connected with the Capitol theater and assistant to James A. Carrier, director general of the company.

Lichey reported to the stockholders, all prominent business men here, that the tour was a "flop" solely because of the jealousies and the rivalry among the girls. A number of the girls quit the party before they reached Chillicothe, where the tour ended abruptly last week.

Three foreign-born girls who remained with the tour until it reached Chillicothe will be returned to their homes, Mr. Lichey informed the stockholders here.

According to Mr. Lichey, the tour cost approximately $40,000, all Atlanta capital. The only thing salvaged is a luxurious motor coach in which the party traveled. Officials of the organization said here Monday that the coach would be brought to Atlanta and used probably for advertising purposes through which the company hoped to recoup some of its losses.

DR. M. H. GARVIN WILL SPEAK TODAY BEFORE HYGIENISTS

The Atlanta Hygienists association will hold its first meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in the green room at the Henry Grady hotel.

The speakers include Dr. M. H. Garvin, of Winnipeg, president-elect of the Canadian Dental association, and Dr. J. Russell Mitchell and Dr. T. B. Hinman, both of Atlanta. Special decorations for the luncheon room and guests will be furnished by Dr. Robin Adair.

GROUP OF WOMEN TO AID EDUCATION OF BUSINESS GIRLS

"At least a high school education for every business girl," is the educational slogan of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which now is holding its second annual National Business Women's week. The Atlanta club, under the leadership of Miss Kate Hammersmith, president, is joining in the celebration of the week.

Carrying out the spirit of the slogan, the Atlanta club already has aided two local girls through college and is planning to increase its scholarship fund steadily.

JUDGE S. H. SIBLEY HITS LIQUOR SITUATION HERE

Declaring that people of wealth either are directly or indirectly responsible for the amount of liquor brought into Atlanta from the northern part of the state, Judge S. H. Sibley, of the United States district court, in charging the new grand jury Monday urged a thorough investigation of any "organization" higher up which might possibly be responsible for present conditions.

"The mountaineers who make the whisky could not finance themselves unless they either were able to sell it or to get financial backing," he declared. "It is difficult to make the family of a poor farmer suffer because he has made a little whisky in order to get some money. It is the people of means who are indirectly responsible for such a state of affairs."

Pointing out that nearly all the cars in the northern part of the state which are found to be carrying liquor apparently are headed for Atlanta, he stated that indications pointed to Atlanta as a drinking or distributing center and urged that a stop be put to it.

If, on investigation, an organization dealing in liquor is found to exist, the jury was urged to return indictments against the responsible persons. Judge Sibley also urged the jury to make its own investigation, not leaving all such work to federal officers.

Speaking of the prohibition law in general, Judge Sibley declared that the country should either "scrap it or adopt it," but that with the law as it stands, enforcement must be pushed to the fullest possible extent. He read a letter asking his help in releasing from jail a person whom he had sentenced, using it as an illustration to show that this was not always easy, and stated that such cases might not occur so often if moneyed people would not deal in liquor.

Speaking of the light fines sometimes assessed in his court, he explained that these were imposed on defendants who had already been in the state courts and were to be considered more as registration fees than anything else and if brought up a second time, it would be considered a second offense and dealt with accordingly.

STONE MOUNTAIN CAR HEARING SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Hearing of a rule nisi against the Georgia Power company requiring that company to show cause why its Stone Mountain street cars should not be operated from the town of Stone Mountain to the city of Atlanta will be held Wednesday by the state public service commission. The company also was cited to show cause why fares on the line should not be reduced.

Recently the company stopped the operation of the Stone Mountain line from Decatur to Atlanta. This action was taken under authority granted by the commission. Citizens who live on the line have asked that the case be reopened by the commission.

The commission will meet today to dispose of routine cases on the docket, most of them petitions filed by railroads for permission to abolish agency stations in several small towns.

13 HELD IN DRY CASES

Eleven Distilleries Are Raided by U. S. Agents.

Federal prohibition agents operating in the northern district of Georgia in the past few days have arrested 13 persons and have seized 11 distilleries, 88 fermenters, 17,800 gallons of mash or beer and more than 100 gallons of whisky, the whole having an estimated value exceeding $3,000, according to reports received Monday by Deputy Prohibition Administrator H. P. Wright.

Raids were conducted in Lumpkin, Hall, Dawson, Clayton, Pike, Banks and Gilmer counties, the reports stated.

FROM THE DESIGNERS OF AMERICA'S SKYLINE

Frederic C. Hirons, member of the famous architectural firm of Dennison & Hirons, New York. The striking Beaux Arts Building in New York, shown above, was designed by this firm.

"Copper, Brass and Bronze could cost a great deal more than they now do and still prove a very worthwhile economy for even moderately priced homes."

DENNISON & HIRONS

Frederic C. Hirons

IN common with practically all of America's leading architects, Frederic C. Hirons heartily endorses the use of Copper, Brass and Bronze materials in home construction. In addition to the statement above, Mr. Hirons says:

"For years Copper, Brass and Bronze have been specified in the buildings we design, because we feel that their use is no more than common sense economy. They may cost a trifle more, but at their present low prices, this difference is slight indeed."

If you are thinking of building or buying a home or remodeling your present one, be guided by the advice of these great architects. Insist on Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures. By using these rust-proof materials you can assure yourself permanent immunity from repair and replacement costs.

Write our Building Service Department for additional information. There is no obligation on your part.

GEORGIA'S SALARIES WILL BE PAID ON TIME

State Is Facing No Financial Crisis, Officials at Capitol Report.

Georgia is not facing any kind of financial crisis and there will be no delays in paying salaries of state officers and other routine expenses of operating the state government, according to information obtained at the capitol Monday from fiscal officials. The report that payment of salaries would be delayed was circulated when State Auditor Sam J. Slate announced that all collections of 1928 revenue to be made in the next few weeks would be applied to the retirement of a $1,500,000 temporary loan made last week by the governor, the money to be used in paying salaries of teachers in the common schools of the state.

Ample revenue is in sight to take care of this as well as other obligations, it was learned from an official and authoritative source Monday. Taxes due in April and in June will be more than ample to pay the temporary loan, it was stated. Occupational taxes amounting to more than $500,000 will be available in April, while corporation, utilities and other firms will contribute substantial payments to the state in June.

No state department will be crippled as a result of the negotiation of the loan for the schools, it was announced at the governor's office. Governor L. G. Hardman was not in the city Monday but it was stated that the loan money would be available for schools immediately. The governor went to Commerce to attend a meeting of the directors of the Harmony Grove cotton mill.

Entries have been received from Tech High, Boys' High, Girls' High and East Point High school, Mr. Cheney announced.

"We hope to have all the entries received by the end of this week," Mr. Cheney said. Mr. Cheney announced that the judges would be chosen within a few days.

Fannie Ward

Fannie Ward
Famous for Her Ever-Youthful Appearance.

"'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.' That's been my policy ever since Luckies started—my way of retaining the figure I need to be known as the ever-youthful Fannie Ward. So I say to you women who want to cheat time as I have done, 'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.'"

FANNIE WARD

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Central of Georgia Railway Discusses Permanence of Railroad Policies and Practices

The policies of a railroad and its manner of performing service are of vital importance to the communities it serves. Railroads are a permanent institution, and practically every activity of modern life is dependent upon their continuance. One characteristic of this permanence of the railroads is the adoption of certain policies, which are continued—regardless of changes in management or personnel—because these policies are of proven value.

The fundamental policy of the Central of Georgia is to deal fairly with everyone—with the public the railroad serves, with the thousands of men and women on its payrolls, and with those whose funds are invested in its securities—and there will be no change in this general practice. In the future, as in the past, this railroad will be operated with due regard for the interests of all of these.

Certain well defined policies have developed as outgrowths of this general practice of endeavoring to deal fairly with everyone coming in contact with the Central of Georgia. Railroad patrons have a right to expect efficient and reliable service, and the Central of Georgia tries to supply at times service that is not only safe, adequate and dependable but courteous. These qualities will continue to characterize service performed by this railroad.

The Central of Georgia recognizes other obligations than that of rendering service—important though that obligation is. As a good citizen it believes that it should co-operate in every possible way in the development and progress of the communities which it serves. It has for many years maintained a Development Department, with both Agricultural and Industrial branches, dedicated to that work. Not only through such activities but, wherever possible, through those of every other department of the railroad, the Central of Georgia will continue to work for the upbuilding of the commerce, industry and agriculture of its territory.

For the past seven years the Central of Georgia has taken the public into its confidence through paid newspaper advertisements published monthly, discussing matters of interest concerning the railroads and the shipping and traveling public. It believes that this is an important feature of its program of dealing fairly and frankly with the public, and contemplates no change in this practice.

The co-operation they have won from railroad patrons, employes and the public generally has more than justified the Central of Georgia's established policies. In re-dedicating this railroad to a program of service, development and fair and frank dealing, the management believes and hopes that it will continue to merit the confidence and approval of its friends and patrons.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

A. E. CLIFT,
President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS SCORED AND LAUDED

Proposal of Cobb Is Condemned by Baptist and Methodist Pastors.

While the Baptist and Methodist Ministers' Association at meetings Monday were condemning the recently started movement to legalize commercial amusements in Atlanta, Councilman H. M. Cobb, Jr., advocate in council of the plan, was claiming that from several sources he had received favorable comment upon his proposal.

A resolution decrying the move was adopted by the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Association at the instance of Dr. W. H. Major, pastor of the Capitol Avenue Baptist church, the congregation of which adopted a similar paper Sunday.

A resolution similar to that adopted by the Baptists was passed by the Atlanta Methodist Ministers' Association at request of Rev. R. L. Russell, pastor of the Druid Hills Methodist church.

The Methodist pastors also decided to give notice of its action to the Atlanta Christian council and city council. A committee composed of the Rev. S. P. Wiggins, presiding elder of the North Atlanta district; the Rev. W. T. Hunnicutt and the Rev. R. L. Russell, was delegated to take the matter before city council.

Discussing the matter Monday, Councilman Cobb, who introduced the matter into city council at a meeting held last Saturday, stated that he had been more than pleased at the reception which his idea had received. He said that many citizens not only from his own ward, but from many others have commended the action and expressed himself as certain that at present public sentiment is in favor of the project.

It was announced following a conference Monday between Mr. Cobb and City Attorney James L. Mayson that a resolution would be introduced in city council next Monday asking the state legislature to authorize Sunday amusements in Atlanta subject to approval of the city voters.

FLOYD WOODWARD CASE IS RECALLED BY WOODEN DESK

Reminiscences of one of the most sensational cases in the history of Atlanta were brought up Monday in removal from the office of John S. McClelland, solicitor of city criminal court, of an old desk which was a part of the office furniture in the place operated by the Floyd Woodward bunco gang. The desk was replaced by modern steel office furniture, and was turned over to the court house custodian to be stowed away. The desk was seized as evidence, and after being held for a time by the solicitor-general was turned over to the city court solicitor for use.

A handsome steel safe has replaced the old filing cabinet in McClelland's office for the safekeeping of accusations and other important papers, and the entire office is being renovated by the court house painters.

Meeting at Waycross Today Will Open Campaign For Okefenokee Preservation Prominent Georgians and National Figures To Attend Session; Senator Harris To Speak.

Waycross, Ga., March 11.—(Special.)—Increasing importance of the preservation of the Okefenokee, southeastern wonderland, is vividly reflected today as final preparations are made for the meeting to be held here tomorrow in the interest of the south Georgia "land of trembling earth."

Senator William J. Harris, author of the senate bill to create a wild life sanctuary and forest preserve in the Okefenokee, and one of the most ardent believers in the historic and scenic values of the mammoth swamp area which covers approximately 700 square miles of southeast Georgia territory, will be the opening speaker on the program.

The meeting will be held at the Lyric theater, beginning at 11 o'clock, many outstanding Georgians and national enthusiasts being invited to attend the session. Plans will be laid at the meeting for a national conference to be held in Waycross in the late spring or early summer, and for the greatest expedition ever organized for the inspection of the swamp land, according to J. S. Elkins, secretary of the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the meeting tomorrow is called.

In addition to the address of Senator Harris, who has just returned to Georgia from Washington following the close of congress, Peter S. Twitty, fish and game commissioner of Georgia, will speak.

An interesting feature of the meeting will be five reels of motion pictures showing wild life and natural scenes in Georgia, the pictures having been taken under the auspices of the state fish and game department. A part of the picture was taken in the Okefenokee, showing beautiful scenes at the sources of the historic Suwanee river and the St. Marys river, and showing intimate flashes of animal and bird life in the famous south Georgia retreat.

On the eve of the meeting today the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce received requests from two magazines of international circulation, "Time" and "Scenic and Historic America," for comprehensive stories and pictures of the Okefenokee. Similar requests have come from many periodicals during the past several months.

T. Gilbert Pearson, New York, president of the National Association of Audubon societies, who is filling a series of lecture engagements in the state of Florida at the present time, has been invited to visit the swamp before his return to New York. George F. Kuntz, New York, president of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation society, today informed Okefenokee preservation enthusiasts here that he would offer a resolution indorsing the development of a national park in the Okefenokee at the meeting of the trustees of his society on March 25 in New York city.

Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, today communicated his regrets at being unable to attend the meeting. He said, in part:

"I only wish that it were possible for me to adjust my schedule so as to be present on this occasion. Previous engagements and other circumstances beyond my control, however, will force me to remain in Athens, much to my regret.

"I hope the meeting will be an unqualified success, for I am one of those who believe in conservation first, last and all the time. Personally, I would like to see some of the beauty spots in Georgia preserved for the benefit of future posterity. Now, of course, is the time to act, for nearly all of those places which should have been preserved and venerated, have already fallen under the ax of the woodman and have been desecrated to a degree that it is distressing to all lovers of nature.

"Please present my compliments to the group assembled on the occasion of this conference and advise and inform them of our interest in the project they have in hand, and of our desire to actively aid in its consummation as effectively as possible."

JOHNSTON TRIAL MAY COME TO END THIS WEEK

Impeachment Trial Nearing Close, Attorneys Intimate At Hearing.

Oklahoma City, March 11.—(AP)—After three and a half days on the witness stand in defense of his administration Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, heard attorneys intimate that his impeachment trial might come to an end this week.

J. B. Dudley, of Johnston's legal staff, announced at the conclusion of today's session that unless the defense discovered new matters bearing on its case the suspended chief executive's direct examination was ended. H. Tom Kight, member of the house board of managers, which is prosecuting Johnston, declared in the course of the session that the trial probably would close this week.

Johnston today gave his own version of various stories concerning his official family which have been introduced in testimony as proof of the charge of his incompetency, around which nine other charges are grouped.

He denied in effect that he had been deprived of a key to his office when the locks were changed at the direction of Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, his confidential secretary until after his impeachment. He was forced to await Mrs. Hammonds' arrival on one occasion before he could enter his office, he said, because he had forgotten his key.

Became Incensed.

Johnston said he was incensed at one time when he learned that the requisition of a road overseer for road machinery had been changed to specify implements sold by Reed Scott, brother of Mrs. Hammonds, and it was at his insistence that the state highway commission adopted a policy of supervising all purchases of machinery amounting to more than $500. The suspended governor said Mrs. Hammonds had informed him she had declined an offer to participate in a projected contract for the operation of a rock crusher at the state reformatory at Granite several days before Gus Wollard, chairman of the state board of affairs, had told him he (Wollard) believed that Mrs. Hammonds was accepting money in connection with it.

Mrs. May Kline, who was trying to arrange the contract, corroborated Mrs. Hammonds' statement that she had refused to participate. John[illegible]

The house of representatives, restive under a month of little legislative activity because of the impeachment trial, indulged in several hours of debate this morning over the advisability of continuing a rule under which it has adjourned each day since the trial started. No action was taken, since under the rule the house was not regularly in session.

ECONOMIC POWER OF U. S. FEARED, SAYS FRENCHMAN

"Europe is not antagonistic to America," said M. Pierre de Lanux, noted French author and official of the League of Nations, speaking at a luncheon in his honor at Hotel Candler, Decatur, Monday. The luncheon was given by the International Relations Clubs of Agnes Scott college and Emory University, and attended by prominent Atlantans. Dr. Ross H. McLean, of Emory, presided.

Declaring that Europe is coming to a better understanding of America and the American people, judging them not on the basis of sentimentalism, but upon the actual attitudes of the individuals, he said. "France and the rest of Europe do not look upon America as the world looked upon Germany before the war, as some in your country believe."

"Europe does not fear America as a despot nation seeking to establish a world empire. Europe does fear the power of the United States in an economic way, however. But I say let America have world economic domination if Europe can not wake up to the new methods of the new industrial age, and try to take her place in the economic sun. The barriers of trade and tariff now in Europe must first be broken down, else America will continue to dominate in the world of finance and economics.

M. Lanux paid high tribute to the press of the world in being able to properly shape the world's opinion on public questions. He defended the European press in its attitude toward the United States, saying that those editorial outbursts were not directed against the U. S. as a whole but at principals and practices of certain individuals in the United States.

SANDWICH SHOP'S SAFE YIELDS $1,000 TO EXPERT YEGGS

Strong-armed and expert cracksmen early Monday morning operated upon the safe of the Pig 'n Whistle barbecue stand, at 245 Ponce de Leon avenue, and removed about $1,000 in cash after moving the safe from the office to the rear of the building where the door was blown off.

Entrance was gained by forcing a front door of the establishment, after which the safe, weighing between 200 and 300 pounds, was taken to a vacant lot just at the rear of the building. It then was "loaded" with nitroglycerine and after waiters' coats had been placed about it to deaden the sound, the door was blasted free.

According to officers who examined the safe for finger prints, the work was done by an expert working with gloves, for only one imperfect print was left and the door was neatly cut out by the skilfully placed "soup." The loss was covered by insurance, officials of the company said.

HUNT CAB DRIVER FOR INFORMATION ON MIAMI MURDER

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—A taxicab driver, believed to have taken Ed Wilson from the Miami-Biltmore hotel within an hour after Thomas (Fatty) Walsh had been killed early Thursday morning, was sought by state investigators today, in the belief that he might be able to throw some light on the whereabouts of Wilson.

Wilson, for whom a warrant charging the murder of Walsh has been sworn out, was still at large tonight, with officials divided in their conjectures as to his present location. It was generally agreed among the investigators that he was not in the Miami territory, however. Wilson, proprietor of a gambling establishment that was operated in a fourteenth floor suite of the hotel without the knowledge of the hotel management, was also believed to be named in two secret grand jury indictments voted Saturday although the identity of the man named had not been made public today.

THREE ARE KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS CHILDREN ON WALK

Norton, Va., March 11.—(AP)—Three persons were killed near here this afternoon when an automobile left the highway and plunged into a group of children playing upon a sidewalk, and then plunged over.

The dead are: I. T. Hartsock, Appalachia; Juanita Reed, 6, and Carrie Reed, 8.

The children were hurled against a stone wall and Carrie was killed instantly. The machine then ran a few feet farther down the hill, turned over and Hartsock was crushed to death. The other Reed child was taken to a hospital where she died within a half hour.

EUROPEAN AUTO TRIP DESCRIBED BY AXEL OXHOLM

"By Auto Around Europe" is the title of an interesting article written by Axel H. Oxholm, director of the president's national committee on wood utilization in which he describes routes taken, accommodations and other matters of interest to anyone contemplating such a trip. Copies of the article may be obtained from the Atlanta district office of the federal department of commerce at 538 Postoffice building.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent, and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs' Drug stores today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.—(adv.)

'The Black Crook' and Ladies In Tights Draw N. Y. Elite

SHOWS OF 62 YEARS AGO APPEARS

New York, March 11.—(AP)—A sophisticated New York audience, in dinner coats and ermine evening wraps, traveled to Hoboken tonight to see "The Black Crook"—and ladies in tights.

Sixty-two years ago last October a somewhat less sophisticated New York audience traveled by carriage and horse-car to Niblo's gardens, on lower Broadway, to see the world premiere of the same show—and ladies in tights.

It was the first time that audience 62 years ago ever had seen any ladies in tights. The same might also be said of a large percentage of tonight's audience. Hardly within the memory of man has a New York audience seen so well clothed a chorus as Christopher Morley, essayist and story writer, gave them tonight in "The Black Crook."

Under the direction of Harry Waggstaff Gribble, Oxford graduate, former banker and actor, tonight's revival was as nearly authentic in all details as any revival of a piece as old as "The Black Crook" could be, but it was a lot more than a mere revival.

There were stage effects the like of which have not been seen around here since the days of melodrama at the old Hippodrome—devils leaping into rocks, a box that exploded like a flashlight when the lid was lifted, lots of red fire and smoke, dragons breathing flames, and a parade of Amazons with fringe on their tights.

Miss Eunice Howard, promoted from Mr. Morley's other Hoboken revival, "After Dark, or Neither Maid, Wife nor Widow," and Byron Hatfield played the leads in tonight's revival, and Miss Hazell Cox, who is something over 5 feet 10 inches tall, was "Stalacta, Queen of the Amazons."

In the original presentation, Stalacta was regarded as the heroine of the show. She approached her old-time triumphs again tonight. And as "Carline," the soubrette, singing "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay," Miss Beth Meakins was also a hit. The role of "The Black Crook" was played by Anthony Andre.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safe-guard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

ALLEGED 'RUM KING' SETTLES U. S. TAX CASE FOR $150,000

Willie H. Haar, of Savannah, alleged bootleg king, recently compromised an income tax suit with the United States government for approximately $150,000, it was learned here Monday. The amount involved originally was in the neighborhood of $500,000, it was said, and an agreement was reached out of court.

A part of this amount already has been turned over to the government, the agreement containing a stipulation that if all is paid within a certain length of time the sum would be reduced to about $140,000.

A similar settlement also has been effected in the case of Sam Goldberg and the late Isaac Goldberg, also said to be "high up" in the bootlegging industry, the amount involved being $50,000 each.

J. A. BEALL PLANS MORE LITIGATION TO HOLD UP PARKS

Further litigation in the city's purchase of Chosewood and John A. White parks was indicated Monday when John A. Beall, concession lessee for Piedmont and Grant parks, announced that he would institute action to hold members of the council parks committee "personally liable" in connection with alleged illegal expenditures on these parks.

Beall maintained that the contracts for the purchase of the two parks was illegal because of the fact that it was made upon a deferred payment basis, thus illegally binding future councils by the action.

Beall and Harry Helmer, as private citizens, recently petitioned for an order enjoining the city from making further payment on the Chosewood, White and Perkerson park tracts upon the grounds that their purchase by the city was illegal.

Beall claims that the city thus far has spent upon the purchase prices, improvements and examination of titles more than $60,000. In addition Fulton county has spent about $30,000 upon the White and Perkerson tracts, he said.

PROHI CASES TRIED

Fines From $10 to $150 Are Assessed.

Prohibition cases made up the entire docket on the first day of the March term of the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia, Atlanta division, which began Monday following the charge of Judge Sibley to the new grand jury.

For the most part, pleas of guilty were entered and Judge Sibley assessed fines ranging from $10 for defendants who had already been in state court, up to $150.

Manassas Whatley, of Coweta county, was given a three months jail sentence and T. A. Preston was given a two months sentence for what was said to be his second offense on a charge of possessing wine of more than the legal alcoholic content.

Thirty-one true bills were returned Monday by the new federal grand jury 29 of which involved violations of the national prohibition laws. The other two were for alleged motor vehicle thefts. No other cases were presented and following the completion of the day's business, the jury adjourned until March 25.

"Once I was worried."

Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

THE WILLEBRANDT SPIES.

"What's the grand idea?" is again being asked by leading congressmen and newspapers, referring to the practice by Assistant Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt of planting justice department spies, in the guise of convicts, in federal prisons of the country.

A glaring example of the furtive and sinister practice was exposed at the Atlanta federal prison last fall and now another is reported. A congressional sub-committee inquired into the first case and prominent members, such as Congressmen Bell and Boylan, openly and hotly denounced the actions of Mrs. Willebrandt in planting her spy to make dark-lantern reports upon the conduct of Warden Snook. But the campaign exigencies of republican politics warned the committee chairman and majority not to black-wash the Russian chekah method of the lady assistant attorney general.

Mrs. Willebrandt, by force of her powerful backing by the women prohibitionists of the country, was superior to any curb or dictation by Candidate Hoover, Chairman Work, or the national republican committee. She still holds her own will as to how she shall act, even officially, and there appears a wholesome reluctance upon the part of President Hoover and his new attorney general, Mr. Mitchell, to aggravate militant Mabel to unsheathe her claws in reach of the hide of either of them.

All of which may be good republican politics and personal immunity, but it is bad administration of federal penology. That should be characterized by open dealing with judicial duties and official responsibilities.

It is amazing, not to say alarming, that federal judges can be found to commit agents of the justice department to prison on fictitious charges to enable them to secretly spy upon the conduct of the institution and its warden, or other officers.

It is equally amazing that the president and his attorney general, and even the congress, will permit a system of such snooping to be set up in this country—one which, it may be capitally believed, would be spurned in China, Turkey, or Timbuctoo!

If the authorities immediately capable of ending these Willebrandt tactics do not do so promptly, the matter should be brought to the floors of congress by those who are jealous of the righteousness and honor of our governmental conduct.

SAFETY OF SMALL NATIONS.

Senator Borah has given out his high estimate of the anti-war treaty as a guarantor of the safety of small nations—their independence, peace and properties. With his usual acumen and perspicacity he points out how the pact may insure that strong, envious, greedy, or predatory nations will not be allowed to gobble up the little fellows who happen to own tempting territories and rich resources.

Certainly that insurance will prevail if the nations signatory of the treaty honorably observe its terms and intendments. The temper of mankind, especially outside of government chancelleries, is against war of any other sort than indubitable self-defense. If the people of the nations who have to do the fighting and pay the frightful costs of their wars will only drive their enmity to war into the consciousness of their rulers, then world peace will be practically accomplished.

Senator Borah presumes that the honor of the nations will bind them to observe the treaty and all good people will hope he is not deluded. "Peace with honor" is a slogan befitting every civilized people and the great heart of humanity will rejoice when it is universally heard echoing back the angelic chorus that spread over the ancient hills of Judea.

THE MISSION OF ROOT.

Elihu Root, American statesman and ablest international jurisconsult of our times, is in Geneva to aid in the revision and amendment of the statute for the "Permanent Court of International Justice," commonly known as "the World Court."

To that court the United States have not yet adhered because of one certain reservation adopted by the federal senate. The reservation is that the court shall render no advisory opinion to the League of Nations upon any issue in which the United States have or claim an interest without their assent.

The jurisconsults of other nations have claimed that the reservation would confer a veto power upon the United States in derogation of the obvious plenary purposes which led to the construction of the tribunal. Therefore they have not consented to such concession to this nation and it remains outside the court, except for the grace of the league council in electing to it an undelegated representative American jurist, such as was John Bassett Moore and Judge Charles Evans Hughes, who succeeds him.

The general hope, in America and abroad, is that Mr. Root will be able to so reconcile the existing situation as to make the adhesion of the United States official, permanent and wholly acceptable to all the nations concerned.

If any man should be able to bring about that immensely important result, Elihu Root is that man. It was he who carried to The Hague the scheme for the international court. Its adoption in almost totidem verbis has given to him the title of being "the Father of the Court," and that will furnish the supreme eulogy that time and universal history will write under his name in the temple of fame.

Partisanship ends at the shore and when Mr. Root walks up the gang-plank of an outward bound vessel he goes as an American of whose character and achievements all of his countrymen are proud. When he shall return from Geneva they will hope to acclaim him in the words of the prophet of old—"how beautiful upon the mountain are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace!"

CAN HE DRILLMASTER THEM?

Again it is reported from Washington that President Hoover and his coadjutors among the leaders in congress are to make efforts to restrict the extra session of that body to farm relief and "limited" tariff revisions.

The desire of administrations to prevent general legislation by extra sessions of the congress, as we have before pointed out, is of old standing. President Grant, in his annual message of 1873, recommended the submission of an amendment to the constitution providing that when an extra session of the congress is called by a proclamation of the president the legislation during the continuance of such session shall be confined to the subjects submitted by the president. His object was to shorten extra sessions and prevent possible over-legislation.

But the congress gave no consideration to his recommendation and it continues that when a congress is called into an extra session it has the right to legislate at will and consider any subject permitted by its constitutional powers.

The country will look curiously to see whether President Hoover can rally a republican majority in congress which will hog-tie its constitutional legislative liberties. If he can, he will have done better than any other president since the nation began.

A Princeton astronomer can detect the difference in brightness between a lighted candle 154 miles away and another 156 miles distant. This is causing some consternation among the stars of Hollywood.

Colonel Stewart was oil-canned but his life's pathway is greased with a $75,000 a year pension.

The nature note which claims there are only two birds per acre in this country ought to have a census of the sparrows in our back yard.

Although an extra session of congress has been called for April 15 to consider farm relief the farmers will continue to plow their fields.

The Mexican civil war is becoming serious. With our troops lined up on the banks of the Rio Grande it will be impossible for rum runners to get through.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Speed.

Professor Gerald Daly's ideas on speed sound something like another relativity theory. He announces that we are to witness a revolution in our ideas of speed. Hitherto, only earthly speeds have been considered. When we speak of sixty miles per hour, we mean sixty miles per hour compared with a stationary point on the earth. But the earth is rotating at 1,000 miles per hour on its axis. It is also traveling round the sun at 65,720 miles per hour. The sun and solar system are traveling through the universe at 42,501 miles per hour, and quite possibly our own particular universe is moving through space also. Obviously, then, a man walking down the street at four miles per hour may be moving at 65,724 miles per hour if he compares his pace with a point in the sun, and it happens to be walking in the direction of the earth's rotation round the sun. Speed is a relative affair, says the scientist, and future man when he attains great velocities on earth may have to alter his conception of speed entirely. Today, for instance, it is absurd to imagine a man making a journey to the Milky Way because traveling at the speed of light it would take him 25,000 years to get there. Yet possibly future man will discover some way of circumventing speed and time altogether, and when he wants to investigate the Milky Way he will just get out and go there without more ado, smiling at the old-fashioned idea of speed which limited man and his machine to the confines of the earth and its atmosphere.

Kitchener's Prophecy.

Kitchener's anticipations and predictions as to the duration of the war, only too accurate as events proved, appear greatly to have startled the French, it shows from M. Poincare's last volume of memoirs. To Foch's request for the despatch of the new divisions "as soon as possible," Kitchener "calmly" replied: "You will have a million men in 18 months." "Eighteen months," ejaculated Foch, "I should prefer fewer men arriving a little sooner." But Kitchener was firm: he had "found the cupboard at the war office entirely bear and had been obliged to improvise everything;" besides, he would send half-trained men to face the German armies. So he proceeded methodically to "rent land here (in France) for two years," and promised that "before the expiration of that period British soldiers will be poured in." The promise was fulfilled to the letter. Meanwhile, Kitchener's long-sight greatly startled the French. "'Two years,' Ribot murmurs to me (Poincare). 'Does he really think the war is going to last two years?'"

Falstaff in Tuxedo.

Experiments on the German stage continue with unabated vigor, reports the Observer. Falstaff, in modern dress, with an eyeglass, pumps, a too-short dinner jacket strained over his paunch, a red-tipped nose, but whose every gesture is that of a gentleman, is the outstanding figure of a new Deutches theater production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." Werner Krauss, well known on the continent for his fine acting on the films, may lay claim today to the title of Germany's leading actor. He has obviously enjoyed creating an up-to-date Falstaff, even down to the taking of his temperature after the ducking in the washing-basket, or seeing to it that his wet coat and trousers are adequately ironed and pressed for use again. Pistol, Sly and Bardolph wear costumes straight out of the Dickens illustrated by Cruikshank, and Mistresses Page and Ford have bustles and capes of the seventies or thereabout. Anne Page is early Victorian, her chosen lover late Oxford. Heinz Hilpert, the producer at the Deutches theater, is the first who pays Shakespeare the compliment of literally dressing the play not for an age but for all time. The actors take liberties with the text; topical allusions abound. This, possibly, is intended as a tribute to the same timelessness of genius.

SECRETARY LINDBERGH.

You may or may not remember that immediately after the election of Mr. Hoover I suggested that the post of secretary of aviation be created in the cabinet, and that the place be offered to Charles Lindbergh.

I see by the papers that the idea is being taken seriously. Congress is in a receptive mood, and probably will provide the post. The rest ought to be easy.

The nation ought to continue to honor Lindbergh. The secretaryship would be an appropriate official recognition of this young man's service to the aviation industry.

Also, there is no person more competent for such a position. It will seem a little strange, no doubt, to have such a young man in the cabinet. But, on the other hand, why must a cabinet secretary be in his dotage before he can be trusted? And also has it been an invariable rule that age makes a cabinet member trustworthy? For my part, I'm willing to gamble on Lindbergh's youth.

Some of the women are a little bit mad about Lindbergh's picking out a wife for himself, and they're going to be a little less interested in him from now on.

That isn't right, but it's natural. Lindbergh has been the world's hero, but especially the hero of the women. He has never particularly tried to please the women, but they have idealized him and worshipped him as the Victorian girls used to worship the far image of Sir Launcelot.

Whenever such a hero marries, he loses caste with the feminine audience. The spell is broken. Frankly, the dear girls are jealous, even though they may never have seen their hero or hoped to see him.

In the same way, you know, audiences prefer their film stars unmarried. That's why so many of the stars have married secretly and kept the secret as long as possible.

And that brings us to the first of the seadromes, or midocean landing places for planes. It is under construction at Wilmington, Del., and will be anchored midway between Burmuda and the American coast, as a stopping place for small planes and other airborne traffic.

These seadromes will make transocean flying safe and ordinary inside of five years. Watch them multiply and grow in size.

Some Interesting Things About the Salvation Army and Its Local Adjuncts.

Commander Evangeline Booth, of the American branch of the Salvation Army, happily known and esteemed in Atlanta, has returned from the high council of the army, held recently in England, for the choice of a new general.

General Bramwell Booth, who succeeded to the supreme command upon the death of his illustrious father, General William Booth, the founder of the army, has long been an invalid and incapable of actively resolving the almost daily emergencies of the organization which functions continuously in almost every country of the globe.

Yet, characteristically of the Booth blood, he has stoically borne his infirmities and stolidly refused to admit his unfortunate incapacity for the full discharge of his responsibilities.

The almost headless army everywhere felt the urgent need for reparative leadership and commissioners were sent from around the world to England to secure an accommodation of the crisis. But General Booth's immediate family and entourage insisted that he should make no concession, with the consequence that the high council proceeded to elect Commissioner Higgins, of England, to be its general.

* * * *

Miss Booth Was a Candidate.

The American and some other commissioners proposed Miss Booth for the succession, but considerations came in to counsel the impolicy of doing something that might embroil family relations and seem to transfer the original situs of the army's G. H. Q. from England to America. Miss Booth, much to her honor, did not strenuously press her candidacy and appears to be quite acquiescent in the decision which was finally reached.

Indeed, most Americans attached to the Salvation Army and those sympathetic with its great religious and redemptive work, will be glad that Miss Booth was not drafted into the world-wide work of the organization, but will continue as the popular and effective leader of the American sector of the grand army.

There is a womanly wisdom, a sacrificial consecration, a spiritual strength and a persuasive eloquence belonging to Evangeline Booth which are beautifully suited to the peculiar psychology of the American people. With an adaptability truly remarkable, and in spite of her English birth and breeding, she senses and handles the American emergencies of the army's operations with the understanding of a Washington and the strategic skill of a Lee or a Grant.

A Follower of Her Father.

Twenty years ago in London this writer had the rare privilege of a couple of intimate interviews with General Booth, who conceived and organized the independent and swelling religious evangelism which he christened "The Salvation Army."

In glowing and graphic terms he recounted to me the birth of his sanctified idea, the hard labors of its organization, the perils to its life and progress which had to be conquered, and the eventual breaking of daylight ahead which assured him that, under its banner of "Blood and Fire," his little army would grow to a mighty host and march to myriads of moral victories.

No man looking into those eagle eyes, measuring the profile of his martial nose, watching the vibrations of his nostrils as he narrated, and the set of an under jaw that had defied a hundred menaces, could doubt that William Booth was "one called of God" to do a mighty work.

After those illuminating contacts with the father I know I am not wrong in saying that this daughter, Evangeline, inherits his godly qualities and "carries on" in his spirit. Her methods, her policies, her intensely humane purposes and divine aspirations are all vividly characteristic of the great general himself.

The Army Deserves Support.

The writer has always been a thorough-going friend of the Salvation Army. When it first appeared in Atlanta and the loafers and guttersnipes on Marietta street attacked its street meetings with rotten fruits, vegetables and worse missiles, I hesitated not a moment to take up its cause in The Constitution and demand of the city authorities their full police protection. The Constitution won for them their rights and religious liberties in this city.

Since the army's labors have grown with the growth of the city and have been of incalculable value to the morale and welfare of many thousands of our unchurched masses.

Today Atlanta is the southeastern headquarters of the army and from this center its spiritual, social and industrial ministries are spread over an immense area and population. The splendid and often intangible effects for human uplift that accompany the army's labors entitle it to the voluntary and generous support of all practical Christians.

When I felt the urge, over 40 years ago, to evangelistic work, if I had not joined up with Sam Jones, our famous evangelist, I would have certainly gone in with the Salvation Army. My estimate of its spiritual value is no less now.

A Worthy Army Adjunct.

Before I lay down my pencil and "call it a day" let me add a few lines in appreciation of the Salvation Army band that we have here in Atlanta. At the Kiwanis club luncheon a fortnight ago I heard it for the first time and was charmed by its proficiency.

The band is made up of 30 musicians, men who have come under the influence of religion, and who have dedicated their lives and talents to the service of Jesus Christ. Many of them are of the second and third generation of Salvationists. The clean-cut appearance of the men at a church service, or on a concert platform, presents one of the most convincing testimonies to the value of Christian living.

They are exclusively engaged in Salvation Army activities, the majority being commissioned officers and occupying important positions as accountants, bookkeepers, editors, artists, and others being engaged in character building work among the young people. They receive no remuneration for their musical service, which is a labor of love.

The instrumentation of the band is rather unusual, brass being used throughout, consisting of some 16 different parts—ranging from E flat soprano cornet down to double B bass—and producing a broad organ-like effect.

Included in the band's repertoire are selections from Mendelssohn, Haydn, Mozart, Wagner and others of the great masters, as well as some very fine arrangements by the army's own musicians which are educational in value. A study of the band score will reveal to the musician that Salvation Army music is quite different from the ordinary style of band music, in that it possesses an appeal to the spiritual.

This splendid band deserves the most generous support of our churches and our citizens in general. It is not only a credit to the army, but a musical and religious asset to this cultured community.

Health Talks

BY DR. WM. F. BRADY

HOW TO BE LOVELY THOUGH LIGHT.

There are still a lot of girls who are always trying the latest reduction remedy or playing with a reduction diet whether they need it or not. The trend of modern popular education—which is carefully controlled by commercial interests—is to make a girl suspect she is too stout even when, in fact, she is shy some pounds or perhaps actually in the incipient stage of some insidious illness. In recent years it has happened often enough that a girl in her teens, the time when lung tuberculosis usually develops, has played with the dangerous game of dieting, or, worse, taking dope in a silly effort to reduce when tuberculosis was already invading her lungs and her body weight already below the normal standard. I am speaking now, not of the lackwit, but of the average girl, the girl who has a fair education as popular education goes.

Here it is well to repeat that nearly all height-weight tables now in popular use are unsafe to rely upon, and this includes, I regret to observe, a large share of the tables used by tin doctors, alias school nurses, who "examine" the children of the poor and prescribe treatment for 'em in cities where health administration and school administration are in a pretty low state of political depravity. These printed height-weight tables were compiled on the basis of old-time ideals and standards and were accurate enough for grandma's day. The physical measurements that were normal for girls and women 40 years ago or 20 years ago are by no means normal for girls and women today.

During the past three decades girls and women have become bigger, better and beautifuller by several degrees than they ever managed to be in an earlier era. Accurate measurements of college girls in various parts of the country during the past 30 years and more prove that the female of the species is physically stronger, taller and heavier today, so that these handy little height-weight tables the patent medicine people furnish for the little tin doctors and the general public, and the figures in the slot machines and in too many health books are as far out of date as bustles are now.

If it be a girl's ambition to look like a cartoon or a manikin, of course there is nothing more to be said about good health and good form. But I earnestly advise all but college girls to take off their heavy flannel underwear and solid lead galoshes before they weigh in on a penny scale.

When a girl has fully grown up, it is not only safe, but in many cases beneficial to her health to follow a reasonable, moderate, scientifically planned reduction regimen if there is a tendency toward obesity. A girl is sufficiently grown up for that at the age of 20 years, in my judgment, and accordingly I am glad to offer any woman of that age instruction if I think she should reduce. To all girls under the age of 20 years who seek advice on this, I must turn a deaf ear—and I have one of the deafest ears on the portside you ever tried to get through—and refer the really fat girls to their own family physician, under whose observation and direction a course of reduction treatment may be safely carried out.

A normal woman gains in weight until she is 40 years of age. At 40, if she has taken care of her health, she should confidently believe and say she has never before been such a perfect woman as she is now. I'll say she is, too.

MEXICAN REBELLION DECLARED CRUSHED

eral officials believed a considerable number of soldiers in the rebel northern armies were serving under compulsion and would revolt to the federal cause at the first opportunity.

To Cut Off Flight.

In this event the rebels would be so greatly outnumbered that their advanced positions would be untenable. The federal generals even now are discussing plans to capture Chihuahua City and to cut off the leaders from flight into the United States.

Reports reaching the government indicate that the people nowhere have rallied to the revolutionary cause and this forms the chief basis for the federal optimism. The government believes it has to deal only with a group of self-seeking army generals whose forces, to a large extent, have been coerced into supporting them.

Seized Currency Outlawed.

The rebel advance down the west coast in the state of Sinaloa has caused the government no worry. It believes its forces there together with the natural difficulties of movement through a district where railroad tracks and bridges have been destroyed will keep the rebels occupied until the central situation is cleaned up and it can transfer its army to the west.

The government today outlawed the currency of the 750,000 pesos which the rebel general Gonzalo Escobar carried off from the branch of the Baco de Mexico in Monterey.

There used to be a popular saying in Mexico, "A revolution always wins." The last two attempts, however, failed and the authorities here believe the present movement is destined to go the same way. Another old saying in Mexico is, "No revolution can win if it is opposed by the United States government." One of the most important factors in the present situation has been the willingness of the United States government to supply munitions to the federals and to forbid sales to the rebels.

Government leaders tonight pointed out and expressed much pleasure at the fact that Catholic leaders here have not identified themselves in any way with the revolution.

Obregonists for Gil.

A manifesto condemning the present revolution was issued tonight by the Obregonista bloc of the chamber of deputies, which was considered significant here in view of the fact that some former followers of the late Alvaro Obregon are leading the revolution in Sonora.

The manifesto was signed by all officers of the bloc and was addressed to all social classes of the republic. It called upon everyone for effective collaboration with and support of the government in the existing crisis and declared that Mexico never had known a military coup or attempted revolution so destitute of ideals as the present one. "What slogan, or even what subterfuge, can the authors of the rebellious movement invoke in explanation of their attitude?" the manifesto asked.

The legitimacy of the government of President Portes Gil was declared to be free from the slightest blemish and to have been recognized by the entire country including the army and by all foreign nations. The activities of the government in carrying out the social program of the Calles and Obregon administrations and the energetic attitude of the government in the interests of the agrarian and laboring classes was reviewed. Portes Gil as president was declared to have been completely aloof from partisan politics and to have afforded effective protection to all presidential candidates to conduct legitimate campaigns.

REBEL CHIEFTAINS CLAIM IMPORTANT SUCCESSES.

Nogales, Ariz., March 11.—(AP)—Confident of capturing the seaport of Mazatlan in their steady advance down the west coast, Mexican rebel leaders today diverted 2,000 troops to the interior for the impending battle on the Torreon-Durango front.

The contingent withdrawn from the western campaign was made up of Mayo and Yaqui Indian warriors. This force was brought out of southern Sonora on freight trains and today passed through Lomas, a few miles south of here, en route to Naco, Sonora.

Rebel chiefs said the Indians would be carried by motor truck from Naco to a point on the rail line in Chihuahua where they would board troops trains for Torreon.

General Francisco Manzo, second in command of the rebel armies, reported 5,000 of his men remained for the attack on Mazatlan, which is held by General Jaime Carillo, federal commander.

Advices reaching here said that in preparation for the siege, General Carillo had seized all food supplies in Mazatlan and ordered short rations of foodstuffs and water for the inhabitants.

General Manzo declared that the rebel forces in the state of Sinaloa were entirely adequate for the capture of Mazatlan, an important seaport which might be used as the base for an eastward drive that would threaten the rear of the federal armies under General P. Elias Calles moving north to the Torreon-Durango front.

General Enrique Estrada, field commander in the De La Huerta revolt several years ago, conferred with rebel leaders at their headquarters in Nogales, Sonora, across the border. His former chief, Adolfo De La Huerta, one time provisional president of the republic, remained in Los Angeles, having announced he will take no active part in the revolt for the present.

Rebel forces claims that 1,300 troops from the southern district of lower California had joined the revolution and had been moved by boat across the gulf of lower California to Guyamas, Sonora, were disputed today by Governor Abelardo Rodriguez, military commander of the northern district of the state.

Governor Rodriguez, who has remained loyal to the government, asserted that the defection was of no military significance. The total garrison forces in the southern district did not exceed 75 men, he declared.

14 LIVES ARE LOST IN HONG KONG FIRE

American Seaman From Memphis Is One of the Dead.

Victoria, Hongkong, March 11.—(AP) An American seaman, Stephen Kish, of the cruiser Memphis, lost his life today in a fire which took 14 lives in destroying the King Edward hotel.

Kish jumped from a high window of the burning building to a sheet held for him by firemen and spectators, but missed the sheet and struck the pavement instead.

A petty officer of the U. S. S. Nashville, named Phillips, refused to make a similar jump and instead knotted two sheets together and lowered himself safely to the fire escape.

Besides the American seaman a European man and a European woman, a Japanese woman, four Chinese and six others are believed to have perished.

The fire started early in the morning and burned for more than seven hours.

The hotel was one of the largest and most frequently patronized by tourists in the city. It was located near the waterfront in the heart of the British section.

It is believed the fire started on the ground floor of the hotel and crept up the main staircase, setting the upper floors ablaze and cutting off means of escape of those there.

A Mrs. Robson, an English woman, jumped from the fourth floor to the ground and was killed instantly. Her husband is missing.

PREACHER, WANTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT, NABBED IN OHIO

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 11.—(AP)—The Rev. H. E. Morris, sought in Louisville as an embezzler of $1,436 from the Southern Baptist Sunday school board, was arrested here today at a garage, where he had been employed for several weeks under the name of Denson. Two Louisville detectives who came back after him, having failed to find him last week, said he admitted his identity and had agreed to return without the formality of extradition. Governor Sampson, however, issued an extradition request last week.

GIRL, UNCONSCIOUS FOR 736 HOURS, SWALLOWS FOOD

Lynchburg, Va., March 11.—(AP)—Marjorie Dowdy, ten, of this city, who remained in coma here 736 hours as the result of an automobile accident, was reported as being able to swallow food for the first time since February 8.

Physicians today expressed the expectation of her early return to complete consciousness.

MASTER SPINNERS COTTON USAGE SHOWS DECREASE

London, March 11.—(AP)—Statistics issued tonight by the Master Cototn Spinners and Manufacturers associations showed a world cotton consumption for the six months ending January 31 of 12,722,000 bales as against 12,987,000 for the same period last year. Consumption of East Indian, Egyptian and other growths increased but that of American decreased by 613,000 bales.

Does Calling the Patient a Fool Prove Him a Great Physician?

By Robert Quillen

Usually he is crucified and a generation dies before monuments are erected in his honor.

Being ever conscious of imperfection, and remembering that reformers of other ages began by destroying the current and accepted scheme of things, men are tricked by appearances and see in each new critic a messiah who will save them.

"Since other builders began by tearing down the old temple," they reason, "it follows that any man who endeavors to tear down the present temple is a builder."

It is false and foolish logic, and results in the honoring of men who are mere wanton destroyers.

The celebrated critics of our times are, almost without exception, common scolds who berate and denounce and there end their labors.

Read or hear them religiously year in and year out, and not once will you come upon a suggested remedy for the faults they delight in exposing.

What is more, and worse, they generalize in their denunciation, condemn without naming a specific fault, and offer no proof of the sins they charge.

"It (the public school system) fills them with sentimental flub-dub, economic, moral and patriotic, and leaves them empty of sense."

That has a convincing eloquence, but why not be more specific?

They are ignorant, true, as all men are in some degree; but what are these "veriest elements" of which they remain ignorant?

"What they are taught is trivial and trashy; what they are not taught is everything that they ought to know."

Name these trivial and trashy things they are taught, and mention a few of the neglected items in that comprehensive "everything" they ought to know.

The truth is, this puerile type of criticism is like the irresponsible scolding of an old man who is displeased by a world he no longer understands.

We glorify our common scolds too much.

The great physicians of other ages did not confine themselves to cursing the patient; when they had made a diagnosis, they suggested a remedy.

HOOVER ACCEPTS DEMOCRAT ADVICE ON OPEN WINDOW

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—President Hoover accepted some democratic advice today from Senator Copeland, of New York.

The senator, who is a physician, called at the executive offices and remarked that the temperature was rather high.

Mr. Hoover promptly agreed and opened wide one of the three big windows of his office.

Later the senator expressed his opinion that the president seemed to be in fine physical condition but appeared tired by the strenuous activities of the first week of his administration.

STOLEN HEARSE WITH CHILD'S BODY FOUND ABANDONED

Philadelphia, March 11.—(AP)—A cream-colored hearse, containing the body of a four-month-old child, was found abandoned in South Philadelphia today. It had been stolen last night from the entrance to the receiving ward of Methodist hospital.

Police believe that bootleggers stole the hearse, intending to use it to convey liquor, but upon discovering the body of the child abandoned it.

Noted Presbyterian Divine Dies at Home In Versailles, Ky.

Versailles, Ky., March 11.—(AP)—Dr. Alexander John Aitcheson Alexander, widely known as a leader in the Presbyterian church and in prohibition activities within the democratic party, died at his estate, Woodburn House, last night.

Dr. Alexander, 53 years old, was given credit for being largely responsible for the ratification of the 18th amendment by the Kentucky legislature. He was a graduate of Princeton, and was for a time a medical missionary in Koren.

The death of his father recalled Dr. Alexander to his old home to take charge of the family properties, which included large holdings in Louisville and in Woodford county. He continued his interest in church and education work and made numerous large contributions, including among his benefactions the support of several missionaries.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, with burial in historic Frankfort cemetery.

POLICE HUNTING MONA LISA COPY WHICH WAS STOLEN

Birmingham, Ala., March 11.—(AP)—A motive for the theft of a "Mona Lisa," said to be a near-perfect copy of the De Vinci original, from the Birmingham public library late Saturday or early yesterday was the object of police today in their search for the vandals.

The painting was done by Mrs. Elixabeth Tinker Elmore in the Louvre in Paris after receiving permission to set up her easel within the famous art gallery. The work required more than a month.

The loss was discovered yesterday by Miss Lila May Chapman, librarian, and Mrs. Elmore. Small bits of canvass found on thumb tacks gave evidence that the painting had been torn from its panel.

CONDITION OF FOCH LESS SATISFACTORY, PHYSICIANS STATE

Paris, March 11.—(AP)—The condition of Marshal Foch today was described as "less satisfactory" by his physicians, Drs. Degenues and Heitz-Boyer. They emphasized, however, no relapse had taken place, but that their pronouncement merely reflected a fluctuation in temperature.

The marshal's customary period out of bed was cancelled today, the physicians stating they were taking no chances of raising his temperature which was given as 99.6 with the pulse at 86.

AVIATORS TRYING TO SAVE TRADING POST CLERGYMAN

Sudbury, Ontario, March 11.—(AP) Two airmen were on a 300-mile flight today in an effort to save the life of a trading post clergyman on the shore of Hudson bay.

Captain Roy W. Maxwell and George Gill hoped to reach Kemy lake today, pick up a physician and continue to Moose factory, where the Rev. G. Morrow, of Ruperts House, lies seriously injured.

Captain Maxwell said that if necessary he would cut space in the fusilage of the plane to accommodate the patient and bring him to a hospital.

Mr. Morrow is suffering from a broken hip and internal injuries as the result of an accident several weeks ago.

White House Ablaze With Gold Braid, Plumed Hats In First Hoover Function

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—The first formal social function at the white house since the inauguration of President Hoover was given today in the blaze of golden braid, brightly colored epaulets, and plumed hats of the diplomatic corps.

Following a precedent of many years standing, President and Mrs. Hoover, within two weeks of moving into the executive mansion, entertained at a formal reception for members of the diplomatic corps.

President Hoover closed up his desk at 3:30 and went to the white house to be ready when the guests began to roll up in front of the mansion. For the first time since the inauguration, the white house lawn was dotted with black, shiny automobiles, and the full force of white house police guards, and aides were on duty, ushering the ceremoniously bedecked guests to the historic east room.

The ministers, ambassadors, secretaries, consuls, charges d'affairs and attaches, with their wives took their places in groups about the room. Promptly at 4:30 the president, with Mrs. Hoover on his arm, entered the room, and greeted the guests who had come to give their formal good wishes to the new chief executive.

As the couple passed from group to group, stopping to chat with members of each one, servants passed through the room with tea and sandwiches.

Gracious Hostess.

Mrs. Hoover, who has had long years of experience as a Washington hostess, graciously wended her way through the white house guests, stopping to greet old friends in the corps and to give words of greeting to new members whom she had not met. She wore the plum colored velvet frock that she chose for the day of inauguration, with brown suede slippers. She followed what has been her lifelong custom of wearing no jewelry.

One of the most colorful figures in the group of 200 guests was that of Phya Vijitavongs, the minister from Siam. The reception was his last official Washington function, for he leaves on Wednesday to assume his new post in London. With him were Edward H. Loftus, counselor for the legation, and his wife. Loftus will become charge d'affaires when the minister leaves.

The military attaches of the corps all called upon the new secretary of war earlier in the day, and the naval attaches will make similar calls tomorrow upon the new secretary of the navy.

Sir Esme and Lady Howard are entertaining tomorrow at a formal farewell reception in honor of Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg.

HOLCOMB SAYS IT WAS A TOWER OF STRENGTH TO HIM

Sargon Brings Health After Seven Years of Suffering, Says Veteran Employe American Can Co.

N. D. Holcomb, of 335 10th St., N. W., has lived in Atlanta for 30 years, and 26 years of the time has been connected with the American Can Co. Mr. Holcomb is treasurer of the Men's Bible Class of the Tenth Street Methodist Church, and is widely known and highly esteemed. To the special Sargon representative at Jacobs' Main Store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, he recently made the following remarkable statement:

"For seven years I was in such a nervous, run-down and weakened condition that I hardly knew what to do to get relief, for it seemed to me I had tried just about everything I thought would help me—and then I tried the Sargon treatment—and it put me right back on my feet when everything else had failed.

"In the first place my appetite became very poor, and the few things I had a relish for disagreed with me. Somehow, my food just wouldn't digest. It seemed to sour and ferment. Then gas pains would crowd my stomach, and get around towards my back, causing me almost continual suffering. I took quantities of soda and always kept a supply at my place of business.

"My sleep was restless, and didn't do me much good. I would get up in the mornings with that tired, 'no-account' kind of feeling, and didn't have ambition for work or anything else much.

"Right after I started the Sargon treatment I began to feel better. It proved a tower of strength to me; built me up and gave me new energy. I now have a splendid appetite, and eat anything I want. Fermenting food and gas pains are now a thing of the past, as I am never bothered with indigestion. I sleep fine, and it is restful sleep that seems to do me good. My nerves are steady, and I feel better than I have felt in a long time.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills played a big part in my improvement. They are mild and there is no griping or nausea of any kind. They stimulate the liver, work off the impurities and regulate perfectly.

"I am certainly thankful I began the Sargon treatment when I did, and only wish I had started it long before."

The remarkable results being accomplished by Sargon in all sections of the country is the subject of widespread discussion throughout the drug trade. A special representative of the Sargon Laboratories can be seen at Jacobs' Main Store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where he is explaining the therapeutic action of Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills to scores of people daily. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' pharmacy stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

CENTRAL AVE. VIADUCT TO BE OPEN SATURDAY

No Ceremonies Will Attend Throwing Open of First Bridge Unit.

With announcement Monday that the Central avenue viaduct would be opened to all classes of traffic Saturday morning, members of the bridge committee of city council, under whose supervision the new bridges are being constructed, met, received claims for damages incident to erection of the structures and referred them all to the files of the committee until all claims are in.

After all claims have been filed they will be considered at a joint meeting of the bridge committee of city council and the bridge committee of the Atlanta bond commission.

Opening of the Central avenue bridge, the first actual viaduct unit to be put into use for the public, will be attended by no ceremonies. The Pryor street bridge, however, will be marked, about April 1, by a celebration to be arranged under the direction of Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, chairman of the bridge committee of city council, and Frank H. Neely, chairman of the bond commission.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale issued the order to open the Central avenue structure following announcement of S. E. Blanchard, resident engineer of the Walter F. Schulz organization, engineers on the projects, that the bridge would be ready for traffic at that time.

While Mr. Blanchard set April 1 as the tentative date on which the formal opening of the Pryor street bridge would take place, he added that this was contingent upon weather conditions prior to that date.

Alexander MacDougald, president of the MacDougald Construction company, holders of the contract on the structures, was praised by the mayor and Mr. Blanchard for the expeditious erection of the projects, despite unfavorable weather conditions.

At the same time that the Central avenue bridge proper is opened, traffic may utilize Wall street, the new Plaza way extending from Whitehall street east to the Pryor street bridge along the southern side of the railway tracks, the Alabama and Hunter street approaches and that portion of Pryor street south of Alabama.

$28,000 JUDGMENT AGAINST MEMPHIS BANK AFFIRMED

Cincinnati, March 11.—(AP)—A decision affirming a judgment of $28,000 awarded to Edward Carter, 70, of Lynchburg, Va., in a suit against the National City Bank of Memphis, Tenn., was filed in the United States circuit court of appeals here today.

At a hearing on the suit in 1927 Carter testified that he was swindled out of $33,000 by a group of alleged confidence men headed by one Harry Furay, alias Collins. He charged that W. L. Huntley, vice president of the Memphis bank, cashed his check for $28,000 with the knowledge that Furay had told Carter that he must post cash in the local stock exchange before he could receive money he supposed he had won on speculations carried on by Furay's advice.

The suit charged that Huntley knew Furay and his alleged accomplices would make off with the money which they asked Carter to obtain.

ASK CONSERVATOR TO HANDLE ESTATE OF AGED ATLANTAN

Chicago, March 11.—(AP)—Petition for appointment of a conservator for the estate of James Banks, 4814 South Parkway, Chicago, wealthy plantation owner of Atlanta, Ga., on grounds of insanity, was filed in probate court today. Banks, who is about 75 years old, married his secretary, Dolly S. Gardener Banks, in Chicago, July 7, 1927.

Joseph M. Lillis, as petitioner for Banks' sister, Mrs. Enoch Callaway, asked that a conservator be appointed on the ground that Banks was insane when he married. The petition said he possessed real estate in Chicago worth $40,000 and has personal property amounting to $10,000.

He entered the executive chamber at the capitol, during Governor Roosevelt's press conference, his appearance being the occasion of many hearty handshakes and greetings.

Talking to reporters he displayed his hat, a gift to him during his campaign for the presidency and said:

"Speaking of hats, listen to this one."

"Wear this hat to the white house," he read from the band.

HINES REAPPOINTED VETERAN BUREAU HEAD

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, of Utah, has been reappointed by President Hoover as director of the veterans' bureau.

In common with the other directing heads of the more important independent agencies of the government, General Hines submitted his resignation at the close of the Coolidge administration. President Hoover today returned the resignation and requested the general to remain in his post.

General Hines was appointed director of the bureau by President Harding in 1923 after Charles R. Forbes had been summarily dismissed as a result of disclosures in connection with the conduct of the veterans' bureau.

The general assisted Major General John F. O'Ryan, of New York, counsel for the special senate investigating committee, in uncovering the scandals in the bureau under the Forbes administration which subsequently led to the conviction of Forbes, who served a term in the Fort Leavenworth penitentiary.

Brigadier General Herbert M. Lord has expressed to the president a desire to relinquish his post as director of the budget bureau, but the president has asked him to remain until his successor can be selected.

There were reports today that P. J. Hurley, of Tulsa, Okla., might be named assistant secretary of war in charge of industrial mobilization to succeed C. B. Robbins, who desires to return to private life. Mr. Hurley was prominent in the conduct of the Hoover campaign in Oklahoma last year.

The Chicago-San Francisco route continued to lead in the number of pounds carried with 114,775 pounds. The New York-Chicago route was second with 101,596 pounds. SCHOOLS ALL OVER U. S. PICK ORATORY CHAMPS

District Eliminations Will Begin in All States on March 22.

Washington, March 11.—(Special.) In thousands of schools throughout the United States the week ending March 9 was one of the most important in the work of the national oratorical contest. During that week a majority of the schools participating in the contest selected the spokesmen for their institutions.

While the official date for the selection of a school champion is designated as March 8, the different newspaper sponsors of the contest are allowed to alter that date when necessary in their particular territories. Generally, however, this date has been adhered to. In any case, practically every school in the contest will have selected its spokesman during the week ending March 16.

The general scehedule for the country as a whole provides for meetings between groups of schools beginning March 22. Through a series of eliminating competitions the surviving competitors will be narrowed down to 10 or 12 for the newspaper finals.

The finals for the different newspaper territories will be held April 26.

Grady Student Twin Inseparable in Illness As Well as in Health

"Share and share alike," might well be the motto of Uel and Eula Pearce, 19-year-old twin student nurses at Grady hospital, who Monday afternoon simultaneously had their tonsils removed.

The girls have been at the hospital nine months and during that period have been taken ill three times at almost the same moment, passed through various stages of their illnesses together and recovered at almost exactly the same time.

The girls are inseparable when off duty but even in view of this fact doctors are at a loss to accurately explain their weird tendency to be stricken and recover from sickness with such coincidence.

Legion Will Hold Tenth Birthday Dinner on Friday

In celebration of the tenth anniversary of its founding, the Atlanta post of the American Legion Friday at noon will hold a gala birthday dinner at the Henry Grady hotel. At that time, in addition to hundreds of "buddies" from the "ranks," all the past commanders of the post and of the state department are expected to be present as guests of honor.

An extraordinarily pretentious entertainment program has been arranged, and the Lee Baking company has offered to add to the spirit of the occasion by baking a huge birthday cake which will bear the American Legion emblem and ten big candles.

The following are past commanders of the Atlanta post and with the exception of Asa Warren Candler, who died a few weeks ago, all will be present at this gathering. These veterans were commanders in the order named: Basil Stockbridge, 1919; E. Warren Moise, 1919; Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., 1920; Rufus Barnett, 1921; Fonville McWhorter, 1922; B. P. Gambrell, 1923; J. B. Conyers, 1924; William A. Sirmon, 1925; Frank B. Saunders, 1926; Asa W. Candler, 1927; Frank Kempton, 1928, and Basil Stockbridge, 1929.

The following were commanders of the Henry Thomas Ross post No. 78, of Atlanta, which was combined with Argonne post No. 1 in 1924. The name of the latter was officially changed last year to Atlanta post No. 1: Rouse S. Ellington, 1920; Henry M. Woodward, 1921; Frank B. Saunders, 1921; Evan P. Howell, 1922 and 1923.

William E. Tate, past national commander of the D. A. V.'s, and Frank Haas, national vice commander of the 40 and 8 society, also have accepted invitations to attend Friday's celebration.

Teams Begin Arriving Today For G. I. A. A. Cage Tourney

G.M.A.Cadets Are Favored To Win Title

Other Quints, However, Will Cause Trouble in Annual Scramble at Tech. Gym.

Three teams participating in The Constitution-G. I. A. A. tournament, which begins tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock on the Tech court, are expected to arrive in the city sometime this afternoon or tonight.

Savannah high school has already informed The Constitution that it will reach town tonight and it is expected that the teams from Norman Park and Moultrie will get in today so that the teams will not be forced to take a long train ride on the day that they are scheduled to play.

This tournament, which is being staged for the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic association by The Atlanta Constitution, will attract the cream of prep and high school teams in the state and will offer cage fans of the city a splendid opportunity to see in action players whose names will be boldly written in the college firmament in years to come.

Cadets Strong Favorites.

There are five Atlanta teams in the competition which has 16 squads entered and several of the local fives are expected to go a long way in the affair. G. M. A. is being played heavily as a possible winner, while Tech High and Boys' High will cause much trouble before being put out by some other team.

G. M. A. has had a very successful season this year, losing only three games here in the city; one to Boys' High in a game that necessitated two extra periods and two to Tech High earlier in the season. Since that time, however, the lads from College Park have been coming steadily along and in the city tournament completely smothered Tech High in the final game by a score of 58 to 27.

The team works smoothly and has a good scoring combination. It should go a long way in the tournament and some have even said that the final battle will be entirely military with G. M. A. playing Riverside Military academy, of Gainesville, in the championship game with the latter emerging victorious. Predicting a winner of a basketball tournament is a hazardous occupation at best. It seems, according to all past activities, that these two are the best of all the good teams in the tournament.

Riverside Also Strong.

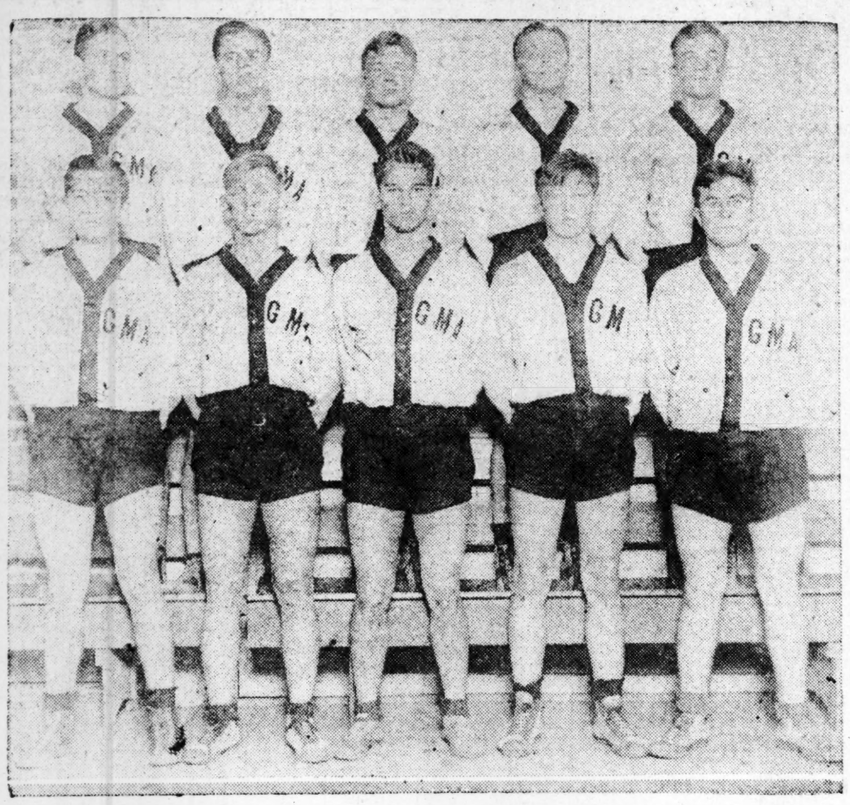

Riverside has ranted through all manner of opposition this winter and holds victories over the Tech and Georgia freshmen in addition to several of the stronger G. I. A. A. teams. The Cadets from Gainesville are rated among the best in the south and went to the finals in the Dixie tourney at Chattanooga recently, being defeated by Central High, of Chattanooga, probably the strongest in the south.

The tournament this year will be handled by three capable and efficient officials. Scrappy Sullivan, Atlanta Athletic club veteran, will be the official in charge with Charlie Dudley, from Columbus, who has handled several G. I. A. A. tournaments, and Roy Mundorff, Tech basketball coach, also working.

The games will consist of four 10 minute quarters each and the play begins Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock when Savannah meets the strong Gordon team. Five games will be played Wednesday afternoon and three Wednesday night.

Admission to the games will be 50 cents for the first and second rounds and 75 cents for the semi-final and final rounds. The finals will be played Saturday night and the two losing semi-finalists will meet Saturday in a preliminary to the final game to decide the third-place winner.

G. I. A. A. FAVORITES

Major Segrave Smashes Record

an instant, tense with excitement and craning their necks to catch the first glimpse of the powerful car as it burst into view far down the course.

Far down the course the roar of the giant machine could be heard and the crowds stood motionless, fearing that at any minute the speeding racer might go out of control and plunge into the ocean or plough through the crowds that lined the course. With a mighty roar the car flashed by the grandstand at the start of the official mile, gaining such tremendous speed that it seemed the machine fairly skimmed over the hard-packed sands. Traveling at such a fast clip the machine appeared like a blur before the eyes of the awe-stricken spectators as it sped down the course and came to a stop four miles away. So fast was it going that it virtually was impossible to distinguish the driver in the cockpit.

Physically exhausted from the strain they had been under during Segrave's epochal run, the spectators sank back into their seats in the grandstand and marveled at the daring driver. When his speed was announced a wild cheer, which lasted nearly a minute, rose from the stand.

Car Dashes Back.

After a short delay at the north end of the course, during which time Segrave changed all four wheels and tires and replenished the ice supply in his cooling system, the intrepid driver notified the officials that he was ready to make his second run south over the course. The two runs were in order that his average speed with and against the wind could be calculated.

Jumping to their feet as the car appeared far down the beach, the spectators again assumed a tense and motionless posture as their eyes followed the fast-moving machine back down the course. With a tremendous burst of speed, the car crossed the mile at the north end of the course, gaining momentum rapidly as it neared the stands, and flashed by the spectators with another deafening roar. Almost in an instant it had disappeared far down the beach in a light mist that had been kicked up by the surf. The second run, although only two-tenths of a mile slower than the first, was as replete with thrills as his initial trial.

After stopping for a few minutes at the south end of the course, Segrave drove his record holding machine slowly back up the beach and stopped in front of the grandstand. Immediately he was surrounded by hundreds of spectators, who cheered him heartily and acclaimed him the automobile speed king of the universe. Smiling from ear to ear Segrave climbed out of his powerful racer, shook hands with his admirers and declared he was glad to have been able to establish a record so high.

Wife Congratulates Him.

The first person to reach his side was his wife. She had sat in the grandstand during the trials, but would not witness the race. She kept her hands over her face, fingered nervously with a handkerchief and occasionally put a smelling salts vial to her nose.

When Segrave brought his giant machine to a stop in front of the grandstand, she rushed out on the course, embraced him fondly and congratulated him on his new triumph. Then she posed with her proud husband, while news reel cameramen recorded the scene on films.

Among the first to rush out and grasp the driver's hand was Keech, who set the former record of 207 miles an hour here last year. Others included Tommy Milton, veteran American race car driver, who set a record of 156 miles an hour here several years ago; Bob McDonough, protege of Milton, and Mrs. White, owner of the Triplex.

Then there came Mayor Ed Armstrong and other city officials, members of Segrave's party, and officials of the American automobile association. In a moment, the daring driver was almost swept off his feet by the cheering spectators who crowded around him.

Edging his way back from the crowd, Major Segrave again posed for the cameramen and gave a short interview to newspaper correspondents, before ordering his record-holding car towed from the beach.

Feels Fine After Drive.

"How do you feel, Major?" was the first question popped at him by the newspapermen.

"Fine," he replied, with a broad smile. "I'm not the least bit tired, but nevertheless, I'm glad it's all over with. Unless the Triplex beats my mark, I'm through racing forever. If White breaks my record, however, I will try again."

Major Seagrave said that on his two trials he did not have his motor wide open and that he believed he could have set a record of from eight to ten miles faster than he did. His car performed "wonderfully well," he said. "There was only one time when I was in trouble," he added, "and that was on my first run north. A tap on my cooling system came off and allowed water to spray over me, but I fought it off successfully."

Major Segrave said the beach was not in perfect condition for the trials and that the visibility "was worse." There were two bad bumps near the middle of the measured mile, which gave him a scare when he hit them, he said, but he had no difficulty in keeping his fast moving car under control.

After his two runs, the tires on Major Segrave's car were hot, but not as hot as those of speedway cars, veteran race track drivers, who witnessed the trials, said. Several cuts appeared in the rubber, probably caused by conch shells buried in the beach course. They were not in a dangerous condition, however.

After receiving the plaudits of the cheering crowds, the daring driver left the stands, entered his private machine, and motored to his hotel, where he placed a long distance telephone call to his father in London, telling him of his record-making achievement.

Others Postponed Attempts.

Shortly after the British driver had left the track, White's Triplex, with Lee Bible, a local mechanic, at the wheel, made a slow run over the beach. By that time, however, the tide was coming in rapidly, and White declared his attempt to break Segrave's mark would be postponed until tomorrow. The trial of H. A. Patterson, Daytona Beach policeman, who expects to break the world's speed record for motorcycles, also was postponed until tomorrow, because of the rising tide.

Low tide tomorrow will be about 3:20 p. m., but White said he probably would have his Triplex on the beach an hour or two before that time.

Bible, who was selected by White at the last minute today as a driver of the Triplex, has not yet received Permission from the American Automobile association to drive the car at high speed. He has never driven a race car, except at a few dirt tracks over the state, and officials of the organization said he would have to make several preliminary test runs in order that they could determine whether he was a competent driver.

Young U. S. Tennis Stars Enter Tourney

New York, March 11.—(AP)—America's younger tennis players are not going to let Jean Borotra carry the national indoor championship back to France without a struggle. Although Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter have made it clear that they do not intend to enter the title tournament opening here Saturday, Bill Aydelotte, of New York, present champion, and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., Canadian titleholder, filed entries today.

Ball, Cotton Push Farrell And Sarazen

Atlantan and Partner, However, Lose, 3 and 2, in Miami Golf Tourney.

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Hard-pressed to the sixteenth green of their afternoon round by a determined Englishman and an Atlantan, Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, defending champions, in the sixth annual international four-ball matches, today eliminated their opponents after Farrell had made his iron shots count for a pair of birdies and two resultant holes. The match went to Farrell and Sarazen, 3 and 2.

The national open champion and his partner, who has previously worn similar laurels, encountered stiff opposition throughout their 36-hole match with Frank Ball, of England, but more recently of Atlanta, and Harry Cotton, prominent young British Isles professional.

High Wind Prevails.

Lowering skies that frequently parted for downpours of rain and a high wind throughout the day threatened consistent golf, but Ball and Cotton held doggedly to their American rivals. The outbound trip during the morning netted a 1-up score for Johnny and Gene, after Cotton had dropped two birdies, a 4 and a 2 in the seventh and eighth cups, respectively, to cut down a 3-hole lead. On the trip to the clubhouse for lunch, the foursome paired every hole but the sixteenth, when the Americans accomplished fours to the fives polled by Cotton and Ball, with the Britishers finishing the 18 holes 2 down.

Farrell and Sarazen dropped their lead on the second and third greens in the afternoon round and were even on the fourth on the eighth hole of the later tour of the course. However, Farrell gained when he sank a nine-foot putt to collect a birdie 2. Ball missed a 10-inch putt on the tenth hole to give up another hole, and Farrell's iron served him ip good stead as he dropped a birdie 2 into the cup at the eleventh green.

Dudley Is Winner.

The Californian team, made up of Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, and Al Espinosa, more recently of Chicago, turned in a 2-and-1 victory after repulsing a determined threat on the homeward trip during the afternoon by Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, L. I., and Miami Beach, and Tommy Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Willie MacFarlane, former open champion, of Westchester, N. Y., and Harry Hampton, sedate golfer from Chicago and Key West, Fla., drove their way to a 3-and-2 victory over the Canadian representatives, Charley Murray, Montreal, and Dave Spittal Toronto.

Armour-Mehlhorn Lose.

One of the day's astounding upsets came when Tommy Armour, Washington, the former open championship crown wearer, walked to the clubhouse with Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of New York, defeated 3 and 2 by Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City expert, and Craig Wood, of Bloomfield, N. J.

The climax of the day, as far as upsetting the dope was concerned, came with the defeat of Al Watrous, a member of the Ryder cup team, registered from Grand Rapids, Mich., and Horton Smith, sensational 21-year-old golfer from Joplin, Mo., with four major 1929 tournaments to his credit. The pair, evidently bewildered by the inclement weather, lost 2-and-1 to Charley Mayo, Jacksonville, Fla., and Flushing, L. I., and former champion of France and Belgium, and George Christ, Rochester, N. Y., and Davenport, Fla., runner-up in the 1929 Miami Beach open.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn., defeated Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., and Leonard Schmutte, Indianapolis, 4 and 3 after the western boys had fallen down in the afternoon round.

Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., and another former open champion, were the victim of another dope upset when they lost their match with Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., Ryder cup team member, and Billy Burke, Westport, N. Y., 5 and 4.

Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, and Walter Hagen, British open champion, the seeded team of the lower bracket, took an easy 6-4 match from Eddie Williams, Cleveland, and Wilfred Reid, Detroit, for an advance to tomorrow's matches.

Farrell and Sarazen will meet Espinosa and Dudley for one match in the upper bracket tomorrow, the other being the contest between MacFarlane and Hampton and Hackney and Wood.

In the lower bracket, Mayo and Christ will meet Turnesa and Cuici, with Hagen and Diegel playing Golden and Burke.

G. I. A. A. TEAMS PRESENT VARIETIES OF BASKETBALL

:: Galaxy of Prep Stars Will Parade on Tech Court ::

BY D. A. HALLMAN.

Riverside Military Academy, of Gainesville, Ga., will rely upon four experienced stars in its drive for the G. I. A. A. championship in the tournament starting here Wednesday.

Georgia Military academy will base its hopes on a well-balanced team, primed to high pitch and in the peak of condition.

Tech High's Smithies will present a formidable passing attack, and a knack for long shots.

Lanier High, of Macon, present conference champions, will depend on a furious passing offensive, with trick maneuvers carrying the ball under the basket for short shot after short shot.

Four Favorites.

These are the four distinctive teams of the G. I. A. A. this year, and the favorites for the semi-finals. However, any number of other strong quintets will have chances aplenty to upset the dope. Boys' High, Columbus High and Savannah High, finalist of last year, must not be overlooked.

Coach Dowis at Riverside had four veterans around which to build his squad this year, and this experience had had telling results in the successful season of the Gainesville team.

H. B. Freeman and B. Musslewhite, guards, are playing their fourth year. G. Herrick, forward, and J. M. Foster, center, are three-year men. Foster measures more than six feet one inch and tips the scale at 188 pounds. Freeman weighs 190 pounds and Musslewhite 165. Herrick is the dwarf of this quartet, totaling but 135 pounds, yet he is regarded as the outstanding player on the squad. He dribbles, passes and shoots with startling accuracy.

Georgia Military academy will present one of the best guards in high school circles in Pund, brother of Peter Pund, Georgia Tech grid star. Pund, weighing 190 pounds and more than six feet in height, is hard to upset and a fast player if ever there was one. He knows how to block shots for the basket without fouling his man and he gets the ball off the backboard and out of danger in a hurry. Pittman, blond forward, is the scoring ace of the team, though Shapard, Clarke and Suddath can get right without notice and click with amazing regularity. Hackney, center, can do anything and do it well. To top this off, the Cadets are in really good condition. Captain Talaffero has been bringing his men along carefully. There is no sign of staleness, all the players are primed and eager to win.

Cadets Serious.

That has been the most noticeable feature of the Cadets' play this season. They take their basketball seriously and never give up until the final gun. The team has shown vast improvement in the past three weeks and will give anyone a merry chase.

Lanier High knows how to get crip shots. Selby Buck, has taught his men the value of slipping away from guards and the Poets chalk up most of their points by lightning passes to men standing clear under the basket. The goal shooting is but incidental, the passing is their game, and a good one it is. Leroy Young, captain and forward, is a three-year man, and Hugh Gooding, John Poole, Robert Eubanks and Chester Maple are veterans of last year's squad. Their is not a six-foot player on the squad, but five men measure 5 feet 10 inches.

Tech High presents a problem. Coach Tolbert has been working hard this past week to bring his team out of a stale condition, into which they have sunk. When right, Tech High presents one of the most formidable high school quintets in the country.

Smithies Fast, Clever.

The Smithies are fast, clever dribblers and passers. Buster Mott has no peer in the state when it comes to long range shooting. Buster drops them in from anywhere with heartbreaking monotony. Chandler, captain and a veteran of last year, is small but the best floor man on the team. He is a great running mate for Mott and can equal him in long shots any time. English, who started at center, and has been shifted to forward, is another veteran and the fastest man on the team. He can dribble down the court faster than the average player can run. Crip shots are his specialty and he gets more than his quota, one way or another. Payne, forward, and Callis, center, are playing their first year at Tech High, yet both are valuable men.

These four teams are favored to enter the semi-finals. If all come through safely the last two rounds will see the best basketball ever played in Georgia prep tournaments.

Francis Ouimet Is Operated On

Boston, March 11.—(AP)—Francis Ouimet, former national amateur and open golf champion, may be out of golf the entire season because of a serious abdominal operation.

The operation was performed Saturday. A recent fall had aggravated an old injury. Ouimet's condition was described as distressing but not necessarily serious.

Ouimet was anxious to play frequently the coming season in preparation for the amateur championship chiefly to redeem the disappointed showing he made last September at Brae Burn when he was eliminated on the first round.

Chi Phis Defeat Phi Delta Thetas

In as fast and furious a game as Emory has seen in many a day the Chi Phi team defeated the Phi Delta Theta team 37-26, thus retaining the Pan-Hellenic championship which it won from the same team in the finals last year. The winners had been the favorites from the very start of the tournament, having six letter men in basketball, five of whom were on this year's all-Emory.

Max Schmeling To Enter Ring With Maloney

German Will Take on Another Trial Horse at Boston.

Boston, March 11.—(AP)—The fistic destiny of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, was decided upon today during a telephonic conference between William F. Carey, of the Madison Square Garden, and Eddie Mack, boxing promoter of the Boston Garden.

These officials, after agreeing to work in connection in an attempt to straighten out the muddle heavyweight situation, decided to pit Schmeling against Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, here at Braves field early in June. Schmeling, Carey said, was expected to return from Germany long before that.

Carey told Mack he expected to clinch a match for the Yankee stadium in New York between Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, who defeated Young Stribling in the recent Miami clash, and Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper.

The two promoters, according to Mack's version, agreed these four heavyweights were the outstanding contenders for Gene Tunney's vacated title and that the victors of the Maloney-Schmeling and Sharkey-Paulino battles be worthy to fight for the champion in a Yankee stadium bout in September. Carey has been assured, Mack said, that the four contenders would agree to their plans.

Maloney has signed a new contract for the Boston Garden, under which Mack has the right to select his opponents. Schmeling, when he left this country for Germany several weeks ago, was forced to guarantee the Boston Garden promoter that he would fight for him when he returned. These conditions, Mack said, made the Maloney-Schmeling bout a certainty for Boston.

14 Crackers Report for First Workout; Johnny Jones Signs

BY BEN COTHRAN.

All possibility of a holdout among the Crackers this spring was dispelled Monday afternoon when R. J. Spiller, owner, announced he had received the signed contract of Johnny Jones, shortstop.

This was just after 14 batterymen, all but two possessors of Cracker contracts, had closed down for the day, ending the first workout of the 1929 season.

There have been some fears expressed from time to time by Spiller that Jones would hold out for more money. Johnny's contract had been sent him, but there had been no answer, and Spiller took the silence to be ominous, which, however, it wasn't.

Crisp, sunshiny weather greeted the pitchers as they moved about on the turf Monday in their first workout, which was rather abbreviated but spirited, and the Spiller field weather bureau, of which Colonel Spiller is the chief, predicted the same weather for today.

Wilbur Good, assuming for the first time his role as manager and father-confessor to the Crackers, moved here and there among the lads, listened to the high hopes from the rookies, listened patiently while Climax Blethen told about how he killed 400 crows in one afternoon up in Fredericksburg, Md., took part in one of the pepper games, ran around the park with the boys and told them to be right on hand at 11 o'clock today.

Four More Sign.

Four contracts were signed Monday. Blethen and Art Olsen each signed up early in the morning. Then, about 11 o'clock, a rather tall, very portly form darkened the door of Mr. Spiller's office and there was Mr. John Henry (Rube) Robinson, pitching philosopher and gentleman farmer of Arkansas, in for the first day of practice and also to sign his contract, which was quickly done and Mr. Robinson moved on down to the clubhouse to don a uniform and take part in the workout. Then in the afternoon Johnny Jones' paper came in. Thus with Rube in the lot and Mr. Bill Stickney up in the office issuing meal money, all the Cracker youngsters are here. Colonel Spiller announced Monday that Jones, firecracker shortstop and, according to your Uncle Wilbur, one of the best in the minors, is understood to be somewhere in the north, headed in the general direction of Atlanta.

The Cracker management was expecting all of the squad to be here by Thursday. Only pitchers and catchers were originally scheduled to report this week, but in order to get a good start it was decided to bring the others in earlier.

Kiefer Looks Good.

Joe Kiefer, the pitcher purchased from Wichita Falls in the Texas league last year, was among those reporting Monday and he seemed to be in the best of shape, as did Dick Bonelly, who motored all the way from Patterson, Calif. Kiefer is expected to be one of the pitching mainstays this summer and they are also looking for Bonelly to come through. The latter has been playing baseball all winter out on the coast and is ready for work now.

Hollis McLaughlin, who, they tell us, may join the Crackers, was in uniform and working out. The management has not signed him.

Cliff Knox, catcher, is in bed with flu, and will be a few days late in arriving.

Leach on Hand.

Tom Leach, famous ex-Pirate and lately manager of Tampa's entry in the Southeastern league, was sitting in the stands Monday watching the goings-on. Leach has been signed by Spiller to coach the infield during spring training. Mr. Leach is a quiet sort of fellow, just like Wilbur Good, but conveys the impression that he knows what he's doing.

Presiding over the big stove lately installed in the clubhouse was Charley Wilson, who will train the Crackers this season, taking the place of Bill Daly.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

by DICK HAWKINS

Bill Fincher, Tech and Yale.

A FLOCK of huskies larger than the Mexican army and more belligerently inclined will respond to Coach William Alexander's call for grid candidates today and a lot of them will hear the soft syllables of William E. Fincher during the next five weeks. Which gives rise to the question of whether those same soft tones will be heard another fall at the Flats.

William is back from a little visit to New Haven where Yale university has its home and must have visited Calvin Coolidge so closely does he emulate the example of the ex-president in the matter of offering information.

MR. FINCHER went into great detail about the soft cushions found in the lounging rooms at Yale and the natural beauties of the campus but refused steadfastly to comment on the results of his trip. "Fine place," he remarked laconically. And that was all there was to the conversation.

The pilot of this column refuses to get greatly excited about the possibility of Bill Fincher leaving Georgia Tech for a time at any rate. Our lack of perturbation is based on a thorough respect for the athletic authorities at the North Avenue school. They are too smart to let Bill Fincher slip away from them when he can be retained at a figure entirely reasonable.

THE exact amount offered Bill by the New Haven authorities has never been announced but the unreliable grapevine news service has it that William will get a good start on his first million if he takes the Yale post.

Whatever the figure, if it is reasonable for Yale it is not beyond the consideration of Georgia Tech and the Jacket institution has the jump on all competitors in this bidding. Bill would like to stay here and will do so if he gets a fair break. We believe Tech authorities will call the ante.

Fast Traveling.

MAJOR H. O. D. SEGRAVE has driven his automobile at a rate of 231.36 miles per hour. Believe it or not. If one is given to wondering about such things, that feat opens the skylight for a lot of star gazing. If an automobile can travel at the rate of one mile in just slightly more than 15 seconds—one-quarter of a minute—what will be the ultimate speed of automobiles? At the rate they are going it seems certain that Mr. Einstein will have to evolve a new theory of relativity to keep some intrepid driver from covering a given distance in less than no time at all.

It is a trifle difficult for the layman to realize just how fast A speed of 231.36 miles per hour really is. In round figures that is four miles per minute—Marietta in five minutes; from Pershing Point to Five Points in 45 seconds; from Buckhead to Five Points in one and one-half minutes. It is not only difficult to realize but hard to imagine. It is also difficult to imagine what sort of stuff a man is made of who will drive an automobile at such a speed just for the satisfaction of saying that he has piloted a car at a greater speed than anyone living. It's a funny world.

Triple E Victor Over Calvary

A looping shot, taken from midcourt, which was sent arching through the lofts of the Georgia Tech gym from the hands of T. Dean, Calvary guard, won the second game of the Calvary-Triple E series for the lads from Calvary by a 15-13 count, and made the game score stand at one-all. Triple E won the first of the series last week, 18-17. The final game is to be played off tonight at the Tech court at 8 o'clock.

The game was fast and rough, and the scoreboard never recorded a difference of more than two points. The count at the half gave Calvary a 9-7 advantage.

The score was tied at every possible interval, and stood at 13-13 with but a minute to go. Two double fouls were missed by all concerned in the interim, but just as the whistle was about to call a halt to the proceedings Dean let fly for two points and the game.

ConferenceSchools Veto District Idea

Lynchburg, Va., March 11.—(AP)—Plans for the organization of a basketball league among the eight major colleges, members of the southern conference in the middle Atlantic area, were definitely abandoned by the sports authorities of the interested colleges, meeting at the Virginian hotel this afternoon. Opposition to the plan was voiced by representatives from universities of North Carolina and Virginia Military institute. Duke evidenced opposition to the proposed association by not sending a representative to the meeting. North Carolina, North Carolina State, Washington and Lee, Virginia, V. M. I., V. P. I., and Maryland were officially represented.

Major Clarkson, of V. M. I., was lukewarm toward the formation of the basketball league, feeling that the schedule would keep the cadets away from school more than would be permissible under the scholastic regulations. Woolen, of North Carolina, also expressed the belief that sufficient time would not be available during the short season to play their regular schedules, take part in the conference tournament and play a schedule of league games.

Jones failed to reach an agreement after a four-hour conference with President Clark Griffith last night and is understood to be asking in the neighborhood of $15,000.

Goose Goslin, Washington's other holdout, has not conferred with Griffith as yet but was in uniform today. The Senators meet their first major league opponent Tuesday, facing the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg.

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(United News.)—Rain prevented the daily workout of the Cincinnati Reds here today. Manager Jack Hendricks announced that Ray Kolp and Roy Meeker would be two of the three pitchers to face the Philadelphia Athletics at Fort Myers, Tuesday.

Judge Landis Yet To Rule On Partridge

Birmingham President Admits Probe in Chicago But Denies Decision.

Rumors were flying about the city Monday to the effect that Commissioner K. M. Landis had declared Jay Partridge, last year with Atlanta, Stuffy Stewart and Whitey Glazner, generally believed to be Birmingham property, as free agents because of violation of the "cover-up" ruling by Birmingham and Washington, of the American league. According to all that The Constitution could uncover, the story is still a rumor.

It is true that Rell J. Spiller, Cracker owner; President Smith, of the Birmingham club, which sold Stewart to Washington, and a representative of Mobile, owner of Glazner last year, attended a secret meeting with Commissioner Landis in Chicago some two weeks ago at which evidence was presented baseball's high commissioner, who received it and was to make a decision after study of the case.

At a late hour Monday night, so far as could be learned, no decision had been made by Judge Landis. In Atlanta, President Spiller had nothing to say on the matter only that he had attended the meeting in Chicago and that Landis was to make a decision. At Birmingham Smith had the same to say.

The story that started the rumor that the ball players had been made free agents was started when the Baseball World, an infant trade paper of the diamond industry, printed a story in its last issue that such had been done. Then Monday afternoon the Chattanooga News picked up the rumor and printed a story along the same lines.

It might be that the two clubs have violated the rule and naturally, if they have done so, Judge Landis will punish them accordingly. It would mean the loss of something like $40,000 for Birmingham as there are, it is understood, two more players involved in the deal.

But from all The Constitution learned Monday, nothing definite will be known until Landis makes his decision and the commissioner has made no announcement as to when that will be done.

A CRACKER A DAY To day

R. J. Spiller, Owner.

By Ben Cothran

On November 8, 1879, a blessed event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Spiller in Crawford county, Georgia. Rell Jackson Spiller had made his advent into this world. Years passed, Rell Jackson grew up, went into the baseball business, and now he is owner of the Atlanta Crackers.

Colonel Spiller has been in the baseball business for a round ten years, and for many years before that time was in the concession business at the old ball park.

His first entry into the industry was in 1919, when Charlie Frank was managing the Crackers. Mr. Spiller bought a block of stock and held it until 1922, when he secured controlling interest.

His reign as owner was short-lived, however, and in 1923 he sold out to the S. A. Lynch enterprises. Lynch turned the club over to Dan Michalove, who ran it until the middle of 1926, and then Mr. Spiller again bought controlling interest in the team and is now the man behind the checkbook at Spiller field.

The Cracker owner is rather optimistic over the chances for his club this season—has complete confidence in the ability of his new manager, Wilbur Good, and believes that it will be a big summer for the Crackers.

Fulton Candidates Given Luncheon by Women Voters

A "Fulton county candidates'" luncheon will be given by the Atlanta League of Women Voters at the Henry Grady hotel Friday, March 15, at 12:30 o'clock. All candidates running for the office of county commissioner have been invited to attend this luncheon and to speak to league members. These speeches have been so scheduled that they will consume only one hour's time, thus business people may attend the luncheon within their lunch hour.

The candidates' luncheon is in accord with the regular policy of the Atlanta league to bring candidates and voters into closer contact. Mrs. Alfred Bailey, president of the organization, says: "We feel that this closer contact between candidates and voters creates greater interest in issues and thereby stimulates voting. The league has for some years conducted get-out-the-vote campaigns and lately it has been offered the cooperation of many civic organizations in this line of endeavor. Our candidates' luncheons are really a part of this campaign—and one of the most interesting parts."

Preceding the candidates' talk, Mrs. Harry Greene, editor of the league bulletin, "Facts," will give a resume of conditions in the county with an outline of the duties and powers of the Fulton county commission. Mrs. Bailey will preside at the luncheon, while special guests will include Byron Bettis, Dr. A. H. Cochran, W. E. Dunn, Jr., Ed Inman, A. R. King, George Longino, V. M. Owensby, Robert Pennington, W. C. Tumlin, Colis Whitaker. Reservations may be made by calling league headquarters, Walnut 8472.

Mrs. Stevens Stages Benefit Party For Tallulah School

Miami, Fla., March 11.—One of the best evidences of a Georgia clubwoman's interest in the welfare of Tallulah Falls Industrial school is being demonstrated in the completion of plans for a benefit bridge party being arranged for this afternoon at the fashionable Roney Plaza on Miami beach, by Mrs. T. T. Stevens, member of the board of trustees. Although she has resided in Miami for a year or more, Mrs. Stevens has never ceased activities in regard to working for this school, which is owned and maintained by Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, where underprivileged mountain children are enabled to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to receive an education in an accredited high school. As a member of the board of trustees for Tallulah, of which Mrs. John K. Ottley, of Atlanta, is president, Mrs. Stevens has been a prime factor for many years in every undertaking looking towards the betterment of the school.

Mrs. Ralph Worthlington, another Georgian, who owns a handsome home on Biscayne bay, will assist in making the card party a brilliant event. She was Miss Ethel Burdette, of Valdosta, and established a perpetual scholarship at Tallulah in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Mary Lucy Anthony Burdette, the name by which the scholarship is known. Mrs. McCord Roberts, another Georgian residing in Miami, whose interest continues in this school, is a member of Mrs. Stevens' committee. An exhibit of crafts from the McGregor Adams' crafts shop, a unit of Tallulah Industrial school built on Cherokee mountain at Tallulah Falls, Ga., will be on exhibition to show the high-class work being taught as a part of the education of mountain children. The tables are being sold at $2 per person, bringing a total of $8, and Mrs. Stevens will make a talk relative to this educational institution, which has the distinction of being the only one in the United States owned and maintained by a State Federation of Women's Clubs.

COUSIN JACK FOOLS KING EAGLE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

No matter what the charge you bring,
—Old Mother Nature.

Bowser the Hound had come sniffling along the old stone wall and sent Peter scurrying to safety down between the stones. Bowser sniffed at the opening between the stones. Those sniffs sent little creepy feelings all over Peter. However, Bowser knew that Peter was quite safe there and so he wasted no time; but after sniffling a short way beyond, he turned and went back to Farmer Brown's dooryard. Almost at once, Peter popped his head out. He was anxious to know if Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak was still in the apple tree close by. He was, for, of course, he was not afraid of Bowser the Hound.

"If you please," said Peter, "has my cousin, Jack Rabbit, of whom you have been telling me, any enemies out there in the west?"

"I should say so!" exclaimed Wanderer. "Do you know of any member of your family who doesn't have a lot of enemies?"

Peter shook his head sadly. "No," said he, "I don't."

"Well, your Cousin Jack has just as many as you have," said Wanderer. "And he has one or two that you don't have. There's King Eagle, for instance. I don't see King Eagle bothering you any."

"He doesn't bother me any," replied Peter. "I have never had to dodge King Eagle in my life. However, he doesn't live very near here and I suppose that is one reason."

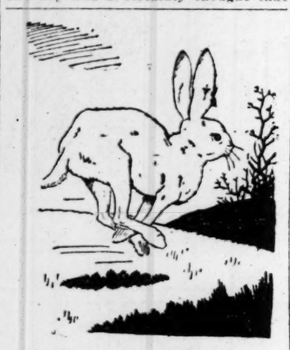

"Well, your Cousin Jack out on the prairie—especially over near the mountains—has to keep an eye out for King Eagle all the time. With all his speed, King Eagle can move faster. You would be surprised to see King Eagle twist and turn in the air when he is following Jack Rabbit. I've seen some races of that kind that were worth watching."

"Does Cousin Jack dodge?" Peter inquired.

"I wish you could see him," replied Wanderer.

"I wish I could," said Peter.

"I watched King Eagle after Jack one day and I certainly thought that

There were two or three bushes some distance away, and Jack headed for those bushes.

Jack's jumping days were over. But Jack knew what he was about. Yes, sir, Jack knew what he was about. There were two or three bushes some distance away and Jack headed for those bushes. King Eagle swooped for him and the way he shot down made me think that in a moment or two I would see the last of Jack. But at just the right minute Jack dodged."

Peter nodded his head approvingly. "That's my trick," said he. "It's a good trick."

"King Eagle wheeled almost as quickly as Jack dodged and was after him again. That thing happened two or three times," continued Wanderer. "Each time King Eagle swooped I expected to see him fly away with that long-eared, long-legged cousin of yours gripped in his great claws. But each time I was happily disappointed. Then Jack reached the bushes and dodged under one of them and there he squatted."

"What did King Eagle do?" asked Peter eagerly.

"Screamed with disappointment and flew away," replied Wanderer. "He knew better than to try to get Jack under those bushes. Jack will do that every time if there are any bushes near. But he doesn't try it with Old Man Coyote. He just trusts to those long legs of his when Old Man Coyote gets after him. However, Old Man Coyote doesn't waste his breath very often in trying to run down Jack Rabbit. It is a lot easier to hunt members of Yap Yap's family."

Peter pricked up his ears. "Who is Yap Yap?" said he.

Americus, Ga., March 11.—Damage estimated at $8,000 was done by fire which gutted the garages of Johnson & Cooper and Carlton Shy here early tonight. The building was owned by Fred Singer, of Lumpkin, and Frank Turpin, of Americus, and the loss on the structure is covered by insurance. The fire occurred during a congested traffic hour while crowds poured into the Rylander theater just across the street from the blaze and hundreds of citizens watched the progress of the conflagration.

SLAYER OF GEORGIA WOMAN PLACED IN JAIL

Boasted Mrs. Adams Had Run After Him for Over Year.

Anderson, S. C., March 11.—(AP)—A man who boasted that Mrs. Clara Adams had been "running after" him for more than a year was in jail here tonight charged with her murder.

F. B. Spence, young married man of Anderson, surrendered to police today and ended a search that started shortly after the body of the 50-year-old Georgia woman was found in a tree overhanging the Saluda river with bullet wounds in the breast and forehead. He admitted leaving his home here with her but denied any knowledge of her death.

"Mrs. Adams came to Anderson for me on December 16," Spence told reporters. "She was traveling in a coupe and insisted that I go with her. I didn't know where we were going but we left that day and went to Rockwood, Tenn., where we traded automobiles and then went to Chattanooga.

"At Chattanooga we stayed at a tourist camp. I left her there on December 30, and came back to Anderson.

"She had been running after me for more than a year and her husband had threatened to kill me if I didn't leave her alone."

HAMILTON ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF RYLEE

Lawrenceville, Ga., March 11.—(Special.)—Charlie Hamilton, Buford citizen, went on trial here today charged with the murder of Fletcher Rylee, also of Buford.

Hamilton was indicted by the grand jury last week at the March term of Gwinnett superior court.

The state used about fifteen witnesses, the defense none. Hamilton made a statement which took hardly more than a minute. The state's witnesses testified to the effect that Hamilton cursed Rylee just outside the theater and that Rylee either slapped or knocked him down and while Hamilton was down he pulled his pistol, shooting Rylee in the left side. The wounded man was rushed to the Gainesville hospital where he died the following Saturday night. Hamilton substantially stated that Rylee remonstrated with him for laughing in the show and when they came out of the show, one word brought on another. When Rylee called him a liar, he said, he knocked him down and that any man on the jury would have done as he did after going through with what he did. Hamilton is 63 and Rylee was about 40.

Because of the prominence of the two families, the trial is attracting considerable interest. Arguments will begin Tuesday morning and it is thought the case will be in the hands of the jury by noon.

I. L. Oakes and O. A. Nix represent the defendant while John I. Kelley is assiting Solicitor General Clifford Pratt in the prosecution. Judge W. W. Stark, of Commerce is presiding.

ARNOLD ROTHSTEIN SWEETHEART WILL GET INSURANCE

Jacksonville, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Miss Inez Norton, "sweetheart" of Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler, will collect his life insurance and go to Europe this spring, she said here today.

Miss Norton leaves for New York Thursday and will remain there until the Rothstein will case comes before the courts in April. She expects to receive $1,500,000, eventually, from the estate, but will collect the life insurance first.

"Then, I'll go to Europe," she said today. "I'll probably sail on the Aquitania May 15. I want to get away from all this notoriety. Yes, I'll live in Paris for a while and then go to Deauville."

The former show girl, named chief beneficiary in Rothstein's will, entered another vigorous protest today against linking of her name by New York newspapers with the slaying of "Fatty" Walsh, Rothstein's former bodyguard, in a Miami hotel.

B. M. GREER RESIGNS TO ACCEPT POST IN ATHENS SCHOOLS

Elberton, Ga., March 11.—(Special.)—B. M. Greer today resigned as superintendent of the city schools here to accept the superintendency of the Athens schools July 1, next. BRITTEN SAYS BRITISH PLAN BIGGEST NAVY

Budget Is Sufficient To Maintain Fleet Equal To World's Forces.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Chairman Britten, of the house naval committee, said today the British naval budget in his opinion indicated that Great Britain proposed to maintain a navy equal to the combined sea forces of all other nations instead of pursuing its present policy of a navy equal to that of any two nations.

The British budget, made public Friday in London, calls for naval expenditure of $280,000,000 this year, of which amount $48,000,000, Britten said, is for the construction of new warships including five cruisers armed with 8-inch guns. These, he said in a statement, were in addition to the eight cruisers now being built.

"With the presentation of this annual appropriation bill," he added, "it is now quite evident that all the talk by high ranking English statesmen that Great Britain was slowing up her warship building program was only bait for American internationalists and pacifists."

UALE SLAYING ADDED TO M'GURN CHARGES

Chicago, March 11.—(AP)—Another notorious gang slaying—that of Franke Uale in New York last year—had been added to the seven murders for which Jack McGurn already is held here.

Announcement that McGurn had been identified by photographs as one of the Uale killers was made today. The development followed closely the visit of New York officers who conferred with Chicago officials about the Valentine's day mass murder on North Clark street.

The Herald and Examiner today said the identification of McGurn, Jack Perry, Louis (Little New York) Campagna and Mike Barnes as men involved in the Uale assassination had convinced investigators that the New York and Chicago murders were done by the same men.

Police said that three telephone calls to Chicago from the neighborhood of Uale's home in New York the day before the Uale killing had been traced, and that they apparently had been made to members of the Al Capone gang here. McGurn and Perry both are known to officers as Capone men. One of the phone calls was made from the home of Campagna's mother.

Uale and Capone were formerly allies, but their relations were broken in 1927.

LENIN'S BODY VIEWED TO REFUTE REPORTS

Moscow, March 11.—(AP)—The remarkable state of preservation in which the body of Nikolai Lenin, the late communist leader, has been kept ever since his death five years ago was demonstrated today.

For the first time since Lenin's interment in his great red quere mausoleum, Professor Vorobyov, chief embalmer of the former premier's body, definitely refuted rumors that gradual petrification of the body had begun.

In the presence of a group of foreign newspapermen and representatives of the foreign office, Professor Vorobyov opened Lenin's glass covered coffin and lifting Lenin's head, gently flexed the ears and nose and moved the skin of the cheeks and jaw, thus proving the remarkable flexibility of the body and its excellent state of preservation.

Professors Vorobyov and Sharsky, the chief specialist entrusted with the task of preserving Lenin's body intact for coming generations, said that they were constantly on the lookout for changes which might result from the sudden rising or falling of the temperature, due primarily to the great numbers of Lenin's devotees filing past the bier daily. Thus far, they said, the body had remained intact except for a slight shrinkage of the hands which could be readily remedied.

The professors would not venture any guess as to how long the body would remain intact inasmuch as they had no precedents on which to go, but they felt that in its present sleeplike state it was likely to be preserved for many years.

In the sixth year after his death Lenin's interment chamber bears an unaltered quiet and solemnity. Two armed guards stand at salute at the head and foot of the coffin. Inside the glass coffin lies Lenin dressed in a khaki working blouse with the order of the red banner and his membership button in the all-Russian central executive adorning his breast. He lies as if asleep, a faint smile hovering over his mild features.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

The Mirror of the Mode

BY MARY MARSHALL

That is a fairly satisfactory answer to that riddle. But one might have more trouble to answer the question: When is a suit an ensemble, anyway?

Suzanne Talbot combines a green jersey blouse with navy-blue kasha in this jacket ensemble with box pleats that are pointed at the hem.

And when is a one or two-piece frock and a coat an ensemble and when is it just a one or two-piece frock and a coat—nothing more? That is another question that is not always easy to answer.

Broadly speaking, any combination of frock and wrap chosen with good taste is an ensemble—whether it was designed as such by the dressmaker or chosen to be worn together by the wearer. The specially designed ensemble has been brought into prominence by the French dressmakers this spring. And the growing interest in evening ensembles should not be ignored.

When we speak of suits we usually have in mind a sport or street costume consisting of fairly short jacket worn with a separate skirt and sweater, tuck-in blouse or over blouse. Frequently this season suits of this description are more or less conventionally tailored, and the prevailing jacket is of the finger-tip length or even shorter. But there is a growing tendency in Paris to make jackets of the two-thirds length.

Then for the more formal ensemble there are seven-eighth length coats and full-length coats usually worn with one-piece frocks. Skirts of uneven hemline are seldom worn with coats of straight, even line. If skirts dip, so do the coats or jackets. Bernard has even made tailored suits with shorter coats which have skirts dipping longer in back to follow the lines of the jackets, which also dip.

If you are choosing one of the new short jacket suits with a tuck-in blouse, sweater or jumper, remember the importance of accessories—for it is the accessory that gives smartness and variety to such costumes. The scarf, the purse, the button hole ornament—on these things much depends.

This week's circular gives a sketch and diagram pattern for a convenient work apron that covers the frock and front. Made a little smaller it makes a charming pinafore for a little girl. If you would like a copy, please send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send it to you at once.

Feed Fat Away
The Food is in Marmola

It seems queer, but the modern method is to feed away excess fat. The food is a gland substance, taken from cattle and sheep. The amount decided by scientific tests is two grains a day.

The reason is this: Medical research has found that the great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. It is really a disease. No exercise or diet can correct it.

The main factor is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. They were perfected in a famous medical laboratory. People have used them for more than 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. Not only constant loss of weight, but new health and vitality. Thus the use has spread, from year to year, until countless people use this modern method.

You can see the results wherever you look. Slender figures are the rule. Excess fat is now a rarity. Men and women try to look and feel their best.

Try this method for excess fat in any part that makes you look old or abnormal. Watch the fat fade away. Watch the new vigor that comes. You will be amazed and delighted. Don't go on with a weight of fat when so many are getting slender. Start today.

That is why Squibb's Dental Cream, made with 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, was developed. It neutralizes acids, particularly at The Danger Line.

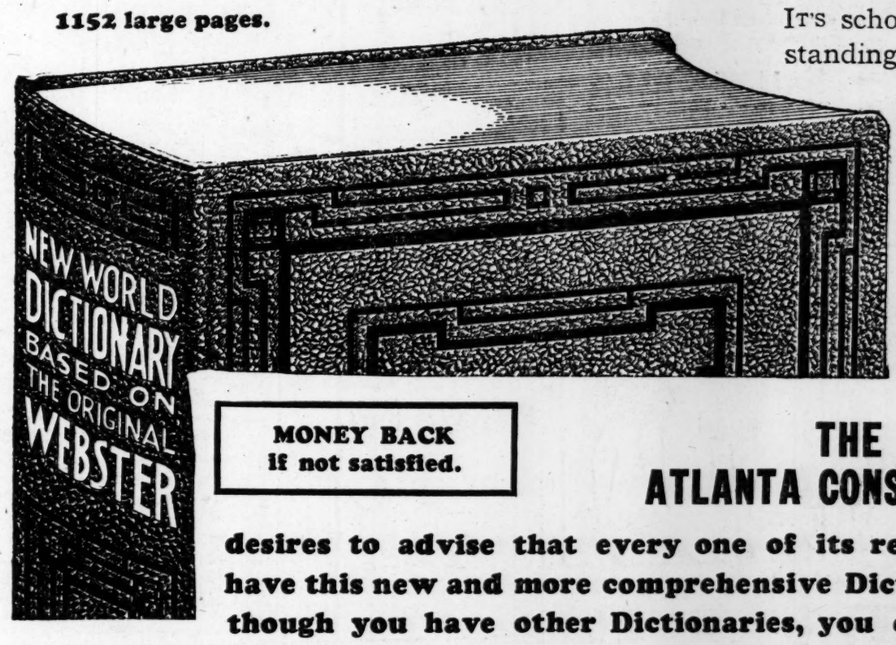

Thus Squibb's Dental Cream protects against decay in two ways. It cleans your teeth beautifully, and where it cannot clean it sends tiny particles of Milk of Magnesia to neutralize the harmful acids. Begin its use today. Harmless if swallowed. At drug stores. 40 cents a tube.

THE MEDBURY FORT MURDER

By GEORGE LIMNELLIUS

SYNOPSIS.

Major Hugh Preece of the Royal Army Medical corps has just been transferred from Bath to Fort Medbury, which is not far from London. He is about to leave his office one day to take his wife and children for a ride when Lieutenant Lepean is announced and he has to stay and examine him. The lieutenant is suffering from a mild disorder and the major prescribes for him. After the young officer leaves Major Preece remembers that he has seen him before and recalls the occasion. The visit puts the major in a reminiscent mood. He recalls his first love affair with Prunella Lake, an actress on the London stage; then his being sent to West Africa and his unhappiness at parting from Prunella.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

FAREWELL TO AFRICA.

Preece sighed as he folded the letter and put it carefully back in his pocket. There came a faint breeze from the hidden coast. For the last time Preece smelt the musty heavy odor of West Africa. He closed his eyes and a picture of the Mongola valley formed itself in his mind; he saw the great plain quivering beneath the sun's noonday heat, felt once more the hot, humid air, the soft, langorous hush, the sense of brooding expectancy as if nature waited transfixed until the sun's declining rays released her activities once more.

Would he ever gaze across that tangled mass of bush and forest again? By day, the maddening, reiterated drone of the cicada; at night, thunder and the tremulous, incessant flicker of distant lightning.

What the deuce had possessed him to sink into that long abstracted brooding over scenes and incidents long past; incidents which, though they lived in his memory vividly enough, could have no bearing upon his present or future? They were finished. Better not probe too closely into the dead ashes of his first love affair. It might be that those ashes still contained embers whose dying glow might yet be fanned into fierce flame.

He knew very well what had conjured up the train of thought that had led his memory back to recall those days of sixteen years ago.

There had been a sequel, a definitely—speaking quite impartially—a degrading and dishonorable sequel.

He had traveled straight through from Plymouth to Preston and had arrived at the theater where "Love in a Mist" was being played about 9 o'clock. He stood beneath the dingy Corinthian portico, hesitating with a queer foreboding before approaching the box office. A thin rain was falling. He heard the, to him, unfamiliar sound of wooden clogs as two mill girls hurried past. The street was almost deserted. An electric tram lurched clumsily along the center of the road. The raw damp struck a chill into Preece. He shivered and pushed open the swing doors.

"Royal Preston speaking . . ." Pause. "No, she's doing her quick change in the second act now." Pause. "Very well, sir, I'll see to it. Quite, sir. . . . To be handed up . . . at the final curtain. . . . Very good, sir, good-by."

Preece realized in a flash that it had been some "follower" of Prunella's speaking. He would bet anything it had been that fellow Ronan and he was arranging for a bouquet, was he? To be handed up by the conductor. Vulgar brute! Pots of money, of course.

Preece set his lips into a tight line and walked out. Luckily he had found a florist's shop open. They had a poor selection of flowers, but Preece saw exactly what he wanted; a modest little bunch of wood violets. They must (for it was late autumn) have been grown under glass, and were, as a matter of actual fact, very expensive, but they looked unassuming. He bought them, hurried back to the stage door, and had them sent up to Prunella's dressing room with his card.

At last she came. She was holding the bunch of violets. His hand captured hers. Hand-clasped, they stood in that mean alley outside the stage door of a provincial theater without speaking. It was a trance moment. Then, if ever, she had loved him.

He had been triumphant. Never had he felt so sure of her. She had read his parable and answered it with a splendid gesture. They had feasted on champagne and oysters, talking afterward in low murmurs, until a yawning waiter began to switch out the lights. Her lips had been cool and sweet when they had parted in the dingy hall of the lodging house.

"I love you, Hugh, I love you," she had whispered.

She would not risk the experiment of marriage on a strictly limited income. She believed money is a solvent that can smooth away all the minor and most of the major difficulties in this world.

Despising himself, but with the despairing hope of binding her to him, he had at length asked her to go away with him. They were sitting on the lawn of the Garden club at the White City exhibition.

The tour of "Love in a Mist" had come to an end, and Prunella was resting.

"Hugh," she had replied, touching his hand, "do you mean give myself to you?"

"Mary me, then."

"Hugh, I . . ."—she bit her lip—"I . . . don't know."

"You don't know if you're going to marry that damn fellow Ronan or not, I suppose," he returned bitterly. "Has he asked you yet?"

She did not reply and he went on: "If you marry that fellow you'll have sold yourself to him. Why not give yourself to me? It would be more generous."

He had turned and met a cold, implacable stare.

"You have no right to say such things to me," she said angrily.

They had quarreled then and parted with vows on both sides never to see each other again.

Three days later he was giving her tea at the Carlton. He could not keep away from her.

They had spent the last evening in which she would be free at Earls Court. Preece had always preferred the Earls Court exhibition to the Americanized blatancy of the White City; it still, a little pathetically, smacked of the nineties; had even a faint flavor of the mid-Victorianism inevitably associated with the Crystal Palace. Its charms were a little faded, one could not look too closely beneath the tinsel and gold; but its naivete, its ingenuous effort to amuse had an appeal far more powerful than that strident vulgarity and instruction-combined-with-amusement priggishness of its rival at Shepherd's Bush. They dined at the Chat d'Or in Soho and drove down after dinner in one of the taxicabs that already had almost driven the hansoms off the roads.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AND "TALKIE" SCORE WITH CAPITOL FANS

A very good vaudeville bill that is varied just enough to be interesting, backed up with an all-talking picture that finally brings the mutter movies outdoors kept capacity houses well-pleased at Loew's Capitol Monday.

The picture is entitled "In Old Arizona" and taken from "The Cisco Kid," regarded as one of the best short stories O. Henry ever wrote. Two headliners, Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe, carry out their parts perfectly and when we tell you that the heroine gets killed in the last reel then you know it's a good picture. The voices are good and the outdoor scenes are okay.

It is rather hard to decide which of two vaudeville turns is the best. There are Cole and Snyder in an uproarious comedy sketch that is plumb ridiculous, while the dancing in the act of the Lee Twins and company, is original and pleasing. They're both good and it isn't often that you get two acts like that on the same bill.

Herbert Clifton ranks next with his burlesque on female impersonators while Frank Salt, a former star on Broadway, they tell us, gets across fairly well with some singing and playing of a uke. The bill is opened by the Three Original Blanks who don't draw a blank with their unique juggling turn.

DOLORES COSTELLO STARS IN FRENCH ROLE AT HOWARD

Dolores Costello, she of the Spanish name and the Anglo-Saxon beauty, in "The Redeeming Sin," current at the Howard, proves herself something more of an actress than we might have expected. In this swift drama of the Paris underworld and its denizens, the picturesque apaches, she at times approaches real Thespian skill.

While Miss Costello is portraying the fiery and vengeful fluerette, Conrad Nagel is a doctor and the object of her hatred. Warner Richmond, as the leering leader of the thieves, and Lionel Belmore, as the kindly priest, both give good performances.

Arranged for the amusement of the patrons we have Earl LaVere, with an accordion that he really can handle and a bagful of Scotch jokes; Owens and Anderson, warblers of smooth blues and possessed of a quiet line of humor, and the Janton sisters, dancers adept, who score particularly well in an eccentric bit. The bandmen as usual do their toe tickling best, which, by the way, is plenty good enough.

And we mustn't ignore the Vitaphone "short" for appearing therein is the inimitable Bob Hegchley, proving anew that he is as funny as his writing. Its all about a homesteader's struggles with a recalcitrant furnace and though there's not a thing in it that doesn't happen every day, it keeps the folks in a continuous chuckle.

TELLEGEN HOLDS HEADLINE PLACE ON KEITH BILL

Lou Tellegen, world famed dramatic star, occupies the "next to closing" position on the stage of Keith's Georgia for the current week, and together with Eva Casanova and Dillon Deasy, presents a dramatic playlet which was exceedingly well received Monday. It tells the story of a former Russian count who finds his wife, who has deserted him, living in a New York hotel with the "other" man.

The entire vaudeville bill forms a well-balanced evening's entertainment. First on the program is the team of Wolff and Jerome, who specialize in a nonsensical tumbling and acrobatic act.

"SAL OF SINGAPORE" IS FOUND THRILLING BY RIALTO PATRONS

"Sal of Singapore," about the most fascinating nautical opus ever produced, is simply wow-ing 'em at the Rialto theater, if crowds Monday afternoon and night may be taken as a criterion.

Starring beautiful Phyllis Haver and the very he-mannish Alan Hale, the vehicle has to do with a "hard but fair" sea captain who finds an abandoned baby in a row boat while his ship is anchored in port, and, because of a strange attachment for the infant, shanghies a girl employed in one of the pier dives and takes her to sea to care for the baby.

The girl at the beginning is quite contumacious when the captain essays to assist her in the care of her charge, but as time goes on, she takes a different slant on the situation, and becomes cognizant of his gesture of magnanimity in caring for the youngster.

Following numerous hectic experiences Sal ultimately breaks down and confesses her love for the captain . . . and after the latter has vanquished most successfully his one and only rival in a thrilling encounter in midocean—the piece assumes the aspect of the usual "happy ever afterward finis."

—T. K. JONES.

HONORS DIVIDED BY LAWRENCE GREY AND PATSY MILLER

Patsy Ruth Miller and Lawrence Grey share honors about evenly in "Marriage by Contract" the current attraction at the Metropolitan which deals in a most entertaining manner with an exceedingly modern question as indicated by the title.

Overcome by a mutual feeling of love and also by the very latest in "modern" ideas, they tie by the contract route and all goes smoothly until the return from the honeymoon when both exercise the rights given them by the agreement. The groom takes on a prize fight while Patsy is among those present at a dance where she meets and old flame.

When the groom gets home in the wee small hours, slightly under the influence, the couple decide that their agreement is only a "scrap of paper." To learn the rest, all that is necessary is to pay a visit to the above named theater, donate the required stipend, and walk in. You will not be disappointed.

Loew's Grand.

One of the most highly dramatic stories ever brought to the screen is offered at Loew's Grand the first three days of this week in "Interference," starring William Powell and an excellent supporting cast. It is a thriller with moments of interest occurring with such frequency as to sustain the highest tension.

Cameo.

Three very modern young women provide the motivation for the swifty-moving film narrative, "Our Dancing Daughters," showing at the Cameo theater today. In these roles are Joan Crawford, Dorothy Sebastian and Anita Page. These attractive favorites bring to the screen splendid characterizations of three types of flapperhood.

Alamo No. 2.

Gentlemen don't prefer blondes. Roughnecks love brunettes. And to prove it Leatrice Joy's latest DeMille starring production, "Vanity," which will be shown at the Alamo No. 2 theater today, demonstrates that those who have a contrary view are all wrong. Miss Joy has returned to strong drama under the direction of Donald Crisp in this picture, and her famous "bob" is once more seen.

Ponce de Leon.

The reproduction of war-time air battles seen in "Lilac Time," with Colleen Moore and Gary Cooper, today and Wednesday at the Ponce de Leon theater, are, to say the least, about as thrilling as one would desire and yet the most thrilling part was not recorded by the camera—the part that the cameraman took himself. In order to shoot the fighting planes from all angles, the cameraman had the floor of the cockpit of his plane removed before taking off to follow the formation of fighting planes.

Empire.

Presented with even more of its brilliance and entertainment perhaps than on its initial offering downtown, "Lion and the Mouse" opened Monday at the Empire theater for a run which will close today. This big Vitaphone special picture presents a great cast composed of Lionel Barrymore, May McAvoy and Buster Collier. The film is adapted from the stage play of the same name, and is completely enjoyable.

81 Theater.

Featuring Lillian Glenn, a Columbia Record star, in some of the latest blues songs, and a cast of capable assistants, "Miss Broadway," which will be presented Friday night at 81 Decatur street in a midnight frolic for white persons only, is one of the best of the season, judging from its performance before capacity audiences Monday.

For real blues singing, such as has never been heard here this season, Lillian Glenn tops all other stars. Her singing Monday was little short of breaking up the show, but nothing to compare with what she will sing Friday night, Manager Tom Bailey stated after the show. Among the hits to be included in the midnight frolic are "Dogging Me," "Shake It Down," "Original Blues" and "Worried Blues."

Another of the features is the playing of Rube Wood's Alabama Jazz Stompers' orchestra. The orchestra scored a big hit Monday and is certain to have a large part in the performance Friday night. The doors for the midnight frolic will open at 11:30 o'clock, and the orchestra will furnish 30 minutes of "red-hot" music before the show starts.

FARM RELIEF LAWS, IF PASSED, WILL BE HOOVER'S WORK

New Orleans, March 11.—(AP)—Any farm relief legislation passed by the special session of congress will be Hoover legislation, declared Representative James B. Aswell, Louisiana, ranking democrat on the house agricultural committee, who returned home for a ten-day vacation.

Representative Aswell said the legislation in general will consist of a federal board with $300,000,000 revolving fund to absorb surplus crops.

"This is the plan in a general way," he said. "Of course you will understand that the special session will adopt whatever legislation President Hoover wants and proposes. He is in control. He has a majority of 102 in the house. There may be some argument and changes in detail, but his program will be adopted."

GOVERNMENT LOSES SUIT TO RECOVER MONEY FROM ROADS

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—The government will be unable to recover approximately $50,000,000 under a supreme court decision today fixing the time when increased pay granted the railroads by the interstate commerce commission for carrying the mails shall begin.

The highest court held the increase must take effect from the date the railroads filed their applications for increased pay.

Upon the application of the New York Central and other railroads the interstate commerce commission granted an increase in rates to the railroads for carrying the mails. After the government had paid the increase to a number of roads, dating it from the filing of the applications for increase, the comptroller general ruled that it should only have dated from the issuance of the commission's order.

Under this ruling the government south to recover approximately $45,000,000 which had been paid out covering the period between the filing of the applications and the issuance of the order, and sought to retain approvimately $5,000,000 more which was due railroads provided the increase dated from the filing of the applications.

The New York Central and other railroads contesting the ruling of the comptroller general won in the court of claims, and the government appealed to the supreme court.

Soldiers Deposit Cigarettes on Bier In Lieu of Flowers

Liverpool, March 11.—(AP)—Admiring former soldiers crowded around the casket containing the body of Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy this morning and laid cigarettes where others laid flowers.

During the war Kennedy, who was chaplain to the king, was known as "Woodbine Willie" to thousands of Tommies to whom he endeared himself by frank talks, helpful advice, and an unfailing supply of cigarettes.

His body was taken from the church here today to Worcester for burial. He died Friday of influenza.

DAY IN FINANCE By R. L. BARNUM

New York, March 11.—Today's stock market was highly irregular reflecting nervousness over the money situation. Heavy selling in the first hour was followed by recoveries and then selling was resumed with the volume falling off on recoveries. At times the market stood still despite a drop in the call money rate from the opening at 9 to 8 and then to 7.

It was reported here that in connection with its March 15 financing the treasury was borrowing from the federal reserve on one-day notes in anticipation of its March 15 tax receipts and this money now being borrowed from day to day was being used to ease money conditions to help the sale of $475,000,000 treasury nine months 4 3-4 per cent notes.

The money market was also eased by accumulation of funds here for March 15 tax payments.

With Canadian exchange at a new low for this movement and with sterling showing signs of support more talk was heard here today of resumed gold imports.

This influence, however, was offset by widespread reports that the federal reserve bank at Boston, here and elsewhere would shortly advance the rediscount rate with the Bank of England doing likewise.

There is no doubt but that higher money is slowing down the building industry. Contracts let throughout the country for February were 12 per cent below January which showed a decline from December. Compared with last year the February figures were down 22 per cent. For the two months of this year the decline was 14 per cent.

Wall street watches the monthly building figures closely because of the influence of this line on other industries directly and indirectly. Expansion or curtailment in the building industry and allied lines means expansion or contraction in a great volume of spending power.

Oil Shares Better.

Oil shares made a better showing than industrials. Much is expected of the meeting of prominent oil men from all over the country to be held late this week for the purpose of discussing plans for voluntary curtailing production of crude oil. Atlantic Refining was also helped by reports that Colonel Stewart would head the company.

American Woolen reports for 1928 a loss of $1,262,000 against a surplus for 1927 of $600,000, the last named figure being equal to $1.20 a share on the preferred stock. The accumulated surplus now stands at $13,913,000 against $23,324,000 for 1925. President Pierce says it is obvious that the time has not arrived for resuming dividend payments on the preferred stock; that last year's operations, averaging only 50 per cent of capacity, did not permit profits with the company now geared up to make a profit from large production; that inventories are large because of the purchase of raw materials at low prices to take advantage of a turn for the better; that the last part of the year showed a change for the better. Few details of the proposed reparations bank have been received here but a round of the financial district today showed that banking opinion here is agreed that the proposed bank would be another constructive step in carrying out the Dawes plan; also that the proposed bank could be used to great advantage as a clearing house for international gold movements. One Wall street banker said that long before the war he had drawn up a plan for a central international bank strong enough to gain the confidence of all large countries to the point where gold would be deposited, making possible an international clearing house doing away with uneconomic physical shipments of the metal.

Part of the widespread interest in Packard shares in recent months has been due to reports that the company's new airplane Diesel type motor could fly 20 per cent further than the present gasoline motor on the same weight of fuel. The company is now starting to turn out its new airplane engines and insiders are telling their friends that actual experiments show that it can fly 40 per cent further than a gasoline motor on the same weight of fuel.

High Lights in the Cotton Market

BY THEO. H. PRICE
Editor of Commerce and Finance

The year 1929 will include the twenty-fifth anniversary of the disaster which overtook Daniel J. Sully in March, 1904, and the fiftieth anniversary of the failure of Maurice Ranger when he undertook to corner the Liverpool cotton market in September, 1879.

To many of those who are now active in the cotton business these dramatic events are hardly more than a tradition, but to those who are familiar with the history of the trade they are, nevertheless, as real as the Spanish Armada and the Battle of Waterloo are to the English school children.

They were both dramatic occurrences. They both were based upon a sound appreciation of the relationship between supply and demand, but they both failed because they attempted to coerce rather than follow the operation of the natural law, and excited the resentment of consumers who came to feel that they were being forced to pay unnecessarily high prices for cotton that they required.

As yet there is but little analogy between the present cotton market and episodes referred to, but the recent advance has carried prices well above 21 cents, and there is now a larger proportion of speculative buying than formerly among the props which support the market.

For this reason it may be well to take a fresh observation. A continuance of the unfavorable crop news recently received from the south, including excessive rains and smaller fertilizer sales, will undoubtedly lead to further improvement. But at 21 cents or over, we are on a debatable level. The obverse side of the rains which have delayed preparation is that they have put a good "season in the ground," and it may be wise to remember that sentiment may become reactionary if we have a normally favorable spring.

Mention is made of the progress of the new crop rather than the disposition of the remainder of the old because it will be more important in shaping prices hereafter, and while news from the mills and goods markets is very cheerful it is now partly discounted by the advance of nearly two cents from the lows a month or so ago.

Therefore if the sun soon begins to shine with its wonted brightness and soil preparation and planting make normal progress not only will sentiment be affected but the distribution of the cotton still on hand will be retarded.

Meanwhile, however, it should be noted that while the consumption of cotton is undoubtedly approximating any previous record many mills are nevertheless selling more goods than they are producing and the increasing backlog of unfilled orders that is being accumulated assures full operation for many weeks to come. And it signifies that consumption of American lint cotton during the second half-season will probably be even larger than the 7,613,000 bales at which it is estimated by the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners for the six months ended January 31, last.

It is upon this basis that a widely-known trader in commodities has assumed bull leadership in cotton by expressing the opinion that it is due to follow in the footsteps of copper with consumers and the public competing for supplies. His statement has crystalized opinion on the bull side and it is so strongly grounded in a sound statistical position that only better weather is likely to disappoint it.

BY W. G. HARDIN,
Market Editor The Constitution

Disappointing news from British consumers brought sharp drops in the cotton market in New York and New Orleans Saturday, and again Monday. A decline of 17 to 23 points was shown in New York with May contracts at 21.21. Atlanta closing on spot cotton was steady, 20.55.

The demonstration of weakness, however, is believed to have failed to impress the cotton trade.

It is recognized in the market that the present high price of cotton has been induced by the unusually heavy takings by mill centers, and by weather conditions.

The controlling factor is the weather, it being realized that if early rains in early March can send the market to such a level, continued bad weather in the latter part of March and early April will send it still higher.

The concensus of brokers advocate constructive buying, in the belief that good weather cannot have the same effect on the market that bad weather can have, in so far as the supply is concerned, since the scarcity of supply this spring will tend to check any material decline.

The small trader in the cotton market, however, must find himself in a precarious condition at present. Gains in the net price last week totaled $4.50 per bale.

It is reasoned, however, that the commodity market is able to withstand considerable inflation, for it will then be on a basis compatible with other markets.

Consumption for the past two months has been greater than for the same two months of any year since the world war. The 1928 crop was 14,173,000 bales with a carry-over from the preceding year of about 5,000,000 bales, making a total of over 18,000,000 bales available this year.

Expert statisticians place the consumption at over 15,000,000 bales by the end of July, leaving a carry-over of around 4,000,000 bales. Under normal conditions, many experts consider a 5,000,000-bale carry-over essential. In 1926 the carry-over was 7,000,000 bales, and in 1927 it was over 5,000,000.

The increased takings of mills, couple with not too bright crop prospects for 1929, are the basis for the continued steady advance in prices for both the present and future crops.

The Cantelaine Rayon Textile corporation will shortly be organized at Rome, with a capital of $5,000,000.

Of this 25,000 shares will be in cumulative 7 per cent preferred stock, and the balance will be in no par common.

Industrializing of the south becomes more a thing of the present than future every day. The Brighton Mills Corporation of New Jersey will remove its entire plant to Shannon, near Rome.

Wall street reports have it that the Firestone Tire and Rubber company is investigating the advisability of establishing a branch factory in the south.

Cotton as employed in the construction of tires, is finding a steady market in this not old industry, and every indication points to a better one.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, March 11.—(AP)—Fresh piling up of wheat supplies in the United States acted as a last straw in determining the course of wheat prices today. Crop complaints from the southwest were thus more than offset, and the wheat market finished on the downward grade after many nervous changes.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, at 1-4c to 1-2c net decline, with corn 5-8@3-4c to 7-8@1c down, oats 1-4c to 3-4c off, and provisions 2c to 22c advance.

Accentuating the bearish influence of 505,000 bushels increase shown today by the United States wheat visible supply total was announcement that world shipments of wheat for the last week, including heavy forwardings from Argentina, were the biggest ever known, whereas new export business today from North America continued to be virtually zero.

Today's increase of the domestic visible supply made the total 123,937,000 bushels, compared with only 69,849,000 bushels at this time last year.

On the other hand, high winds today in western Kansas and western Oklahoma went hand in hand with reports of crop damage, and led at times to considerable buying of wheat future deliveries here, causing price bulges which, however, failed to hold. The crop damage mentioned was ascribed largely to the high winds referred to blowing the soil which at present is very loose.

Heavy selling kept corn under pressure throughout the day, especially in the late dealings. There was a good sized increase of the corn visible supply total, and the market was also affected by Kansas City sales of 80,000 bushels of corn to come to Chicago, with Milwaukee sales of 50,000 bushels also to be shipped to this city. Oats went lower with corn.

Provisions reflected new upturns in hog values.

Sugar.

New York, March 11.—Raw sugar was quiet today, but the undertone was easier and offerings were more liberal. Near-by sugars were available at concessions of 1-32c or on the basis of 3.71 for spots duty paid. Buyers showed no interest and no sales were reported. The easier spot tone and a larger Cuban crop estimate seemed responsible for lower prices in raw futures. Final prices showed net losses of 1 to 3 points.

The market opened steady and unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and some trade buying, probably consisting of undoing hedges against recent spot sales. Demand was soon supplied, however. The estimate of a prominent crop authority placing the Cuban output at 5,218,428 tons, comparing with previous estimates of from 4,900,000 to 5,100,000 tons by other authorities, discouraged outside buying and led to increased liquidation and hedge selling. Prices were easier the rest of the session and closed at the lowest.

Approximate sales 50,600 tons. March closed 1.88, May 1.98, July 2.09, September 2.14, December 2.19, January 2.19, March 2.24.

Silk.

New York, March 11.—Raw silk futures closed firm: sales 365 bales; March 4.97; May 4.90; July 4.89.

Open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai: Steam, extra B, 5.00.

Total bond sales (par value) $8,429,000.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Under leadership of the U. S. government securities all classes of bonds today moved lower, many issues into new low territory for the year. The Associated Press' combined averages for the third consecutive day declined to their lowest level in more than two years.

Time money continued firm, and the rate is expected to remain at its peak level until after the quarterly treasury financing is out of the way.

The selling in the speculative convertibles followed declines in the stocks, as traders displayed nervousness over the credit situation and looked for an increase in the federal reserve bank's rediscount rate either this week or next.

Six of the seven government securities traded in established new lows for the year, and all seven finished under Saturday's closing level. The declines placed most of the issues on a par or better yield basis than the 4 3-4 per cent rate for the new $475,000,000 treasury offering.

Declines in the convertibles were led by Atchison 4 1-2s, which slipped 1 1-4 points to 113 1-2, the lowest price since their admission to trading. Other issues to recede fractionally to a point and a half were: Anaconda Copper 7s, American International 5 1-2s, Alleghany Corporation 5s, Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s, International Telephone 4 1-2s, Porto Rican-American Tobacco 6s and International Cement 5s, the latter establishing a new low at 103 1-2.

Utilities were under pressure in sympathy with the fluctuations of the stocks. Detroit Edison refunding 5s C touched a new low for 1929 at 103 on a 2-point drop. Communications issues continued heavy.

Several of the rails established new lows. Boston & Maine 5s slumped more than a point to 93 1-2. St. Paul adjustment 5s, of which $154,000 changed hands, were firm at 77, their low price for the year, on announcement of lower February earnings. National Railroad of Mexico 4s dropped nearly 3 points to the year's low at 12 1-2. There was active selling of the tractions, several establishing new lows. Reading general 4 1-2s were a strong spot, advancing more than a point.

In the industrial group, U. S. Steel sinking fund 5s sagged fractionally to 108. Hudson Coal 5s advanced more than 2 points, contrary to the general trend.

Foreign bonds were heavy. Belgiam Kingdom 6 1-2s dropped a point to a new low for the year of 104, and Pirelli 7s fell 3 points. Mexican 4s again were under pressure. Improvement in the Japanese yen brought buying support to the Japanese Government 6 1-2s, which improved fractionally.

Curb bonds were heavy.

CUBAN LIVE STOCK REVIEW REPORTS GAIN IS EXPECTED

Havana, March 11.—(AP)—A livestock review issued by the Cuban agriculture department states that there were 4,421,169 head of cattle on the island in 1928, and 644,966 horses.

The report said that a perceptible increase is anticipated this year, due to the opening of several large cattle ranches in the Oriente district.

Aviation Shares Bullish Under Mexican Reports

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Heavy selling for both accounts carried the general list of stocks lower in today's curb market despite sporadic efforts to rally the list by marking up a few specialties to new high records. Liquidation was inspired largely bp persistent rumors that an increase in New York Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate would be made this week or next, as part of the federal reserve board's plan to curtail the volume of loans on brokers' collateral.

Reports that the Mexican government was in the market for airplanes with which to combat the rebel forces was used as the basis for a bullish demonstration in the aviation shares, but the high prices attracted heavy offerings, and most issues in that group closed lower. The new Wright Aeronautical stock, which is traded in on a "when issued" basis, lost nearly 5 points. Alexander Industries, Consolidated Aircraft, Keystone Aircraft and Universal Aviation lost 1 to 2 1-2 points. The new aviation corporation stock was well supported 1 to 2 points above the offering price. Fokker attained a new high at 44 3-8 and then eased to 41 3-4, up 3-8 net.

Public utilities moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, Electric Bond & Share old stock rallied 2 points and the new fell back 1 1-2. United Gas Improvement and the American Super Power issues lost 2 to 4 points.

Establishment of a new high record by Pandem Oil, based on reports of favorable developments on the company's property in Young county, Texas, was one of the few features of the oil group. Anglo-American Oil and Vacuum were healthy.

Ford of Canada, soaring 19 points to 744, featured the high priced specialties. Firestone Tire dropped 8 1-2 points and Newmont, Grigsby Grunow, Gramophone, and St. Regis Paper fell back 4 to 7 points. Silica Gel, which was marked up in rather spectacular fashion last week, broke nearly 8 points, and recovered only a small part of its loss. Massachusetts Gas, making one of its rare appearances on the tape, soared 14 1-2 points to a new high at 146 1-2.

Trans Lux was one of the most active features of the day, moving up to a new high at 13 1-2 on reports of record-breaking business.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed quiet at 20.55, a drop of 30 points over the week-end. Sales 700; receipts 119; shipments 30; stocks 44,082.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—A reactionary tone developed in cotton today following the advances of late last week and prices declined under realizing combined with some local and southern selling. May contracts sold off to 21.21, a decline of 23 points from Saturday's closing quotations, and closed at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 17 to 23 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 8 to 14 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and rather better weather reports from the south. There was a good deal of realizing. There also seemed to be a little southern selling presumably hedging, and considerable selling here by houses with Liverpool and New Orleans connections, believed to be on the differences.

After showing net declines of about 10 to 15 points, prices steadied on renewal of the recent buying movement and covering. Rallies during the middle of the day carried prices back to or a point above Saturday's closing quotations.

May contracts sold up to 21.45. The new October advanced to 20.59 but at these prices there was a renewal of realizing and the lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading.

March sold off to 21.20, July to 20.72 and the new October contract to 20.38 under pressure attributed chiefly to profit taking, but which may have included some local selling for a reaction.

The May premium was cut down somewhat, amounting to 1 point over March at the close and to 49 points over July, compared with a May-July difference of 55 points at the close on Saturday. This suggested some liquidation or transferring of May long accounts, which may have been influenced by reiterated reports that more cotton was coming here from the south for delivery. It was rumored these additional shipments might total about 20,000 bales. There are now here more than 80,000 bales of certificated cotton.

Buying on the midday rally was encouraged by continued favorable reports from the cotton goods trade. Private cables said there had been London, continental and Bombay buying in Liverpool but noted an improved demand for cotton cloth from the continent.

Port receipts today 15,417. United States port stocks 1,855,387. Exports today 23,051, making 6,512,822 this season.

NEW ORLEANS PRICES LOWER.

New Orleans, March 11.—Fluctuations in the cotton market today were erratic but prices tended toward lower levels under considerable realizing and hedge selling. Trade buying and covering on prospects for unfavorable weather in the belt checked the decline for a time but the demand was supplied at moderate recoveries and prices made new lows for the day in final trading when May reached 20.52 and closed one point over that figure for a new loss of 17 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 17 to 20 points.

Liverpool cables were 10 to 11 points lower than due and the local market opened 6 to 10 points down in sympathy. Offerings continued aggressive after the start and the decline was extended to levels 9 to 13 points below Saturday's close.

The official forecast for rains in the western belt attracted trade buying and some covering by shorts who expressed the belief that a return of unfavorable weather would further hamper the already delayed crop preparations. On the subsequent rally prices recovered most of the early gain. The market weakened, again, however, and July sold down to 20.64 and October 20.25 or 13 to 18 points down from the highs.

Offerings appeared absorbed at the decline and the market encountered some support in the form of ring buying probably on the unfavorable weather prospects and shortly after noon July recovered to 20.80 and October 20.50 or 15 to 20 points up from the lows. In final trading a report that a New York pool was liquidating and that cotton was headed for the northern market for delivery on contracts caused prices to sag again. Active positions made new lows right at the end with July at 20.58 and October 20.23, or 19 to 20 points net down. Final prices were at or near the lowest.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The reaction in stock prices, which started last week, gained added momentum today in reflection of growing uneasiness over the credit and brokers' loan situations. A series of bullish demonstrations in the radio issues, which moved to record high levels, and a few public utilities and specialties brought about occasional rallies, but they failed to hold and final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 10 points.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent, dropped to 8 and then to 7, due to the heavy influx of out-of-town funds attracted here by the 10 and 12 per cent rates last week. Because of the heavy midmonth dividend and interest disbursements, and the federal income tax payments, another flurry in small money is generally anticipated later in the week. Considerable nervousness developed during the day over reports, which later proved to be unfounded, that a special meeting of New York Federal Reserve bank directors had been called for tomorrow. The board meets regularly on Thursdays.

Much of today's selling was attributed in commission house circles to the belief that the rediscount rate here would be raised either this week or next, and that it would be accompanied by another increase in the Bank of England discount rate in order to prevent, if possible, a further drain by America on Great Britain's gold. Higher margin requirements put into effect today also may have been a factor in the selling movement.

Establishment of new low levels by some of the United States government bond issues, following close upon the new treasury financing at the highest levels since 1921, also had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. With the exception of a poor 1928 report by the American Woolen company, most of the day's earnings statements were favorable. Excellent reports were issued by the Associated Gas & Electric company, Murray corporation, Follansbee Bros., and a score of others. Talk was again heard of an early split-up of Union Carbide stock, and higher copper and lead prices.

Radio issues were again the features of the market. The old stock opened 3 points lower at 458, dropped to 446, rallied to 473, fell back to 461, soared to a new high at 476 and then tumbled to 451 for a net loss of 10 points. The new stock closed 1 7-8 points lower at 90 1-8 after having attained a new peak at 95 3-4. Nearly half a million shares of the new stock changed hands during the day.

High-priced specialties again proved vulnerable to selling pressure. Allis Chalmers, American Bank Note, American Railway Express, A. M. Byers, Case Threshing, Commercial Solvents, General Electric, National Cash Register, Warren Bros., Western Union and Wright Aeronautical all closed at net declines of 5 to 8 points.

U. S. Steel, Anaconda Copper, Packard Motors, Baltimore & Ohio railroad, International Harvester, Montgomery-Ward, Chrysler, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and a number of other recent industrial and railroad leaders fell back 3 or more points. Despite the rather sharp declines in many of the recent speculative favorites the day's trading was only moderate in volume.

Foreign exchanges held fairly firm in quiet trading. Sterling cables ruled around $4.85 1-8 but Spanish pesetas, Japanese yen and the Canadian dollar made slight recovery from their recent lows.

Reactionary tendencies also predominated in the commodity markets. Cotton fell back about $1 a bale on profit-taking following its recent advance. Grain futures lost ground on reports of an increase in the visible supplies. Coffee and sugar futures also showed moderate recessions.

FENNER & BEANE.

Although money renewed at 9 per cent and declined to 7 per cent, this development offered little encouragement in face of growing recognition not only that federal reserve board is determined to force a reduction of borrowings for speculative purposes but that it is making substantial headway in that direction is evidenced by refusal of many banks further to accommodate private borrowers on stock collateral.

In the face of the uncertainties confronting the market, we can offer little encouragement to prospective buyers although from a longer range viewpoint scale accumulation of selected issues would not be inconsistent with sound policy and for such purposes investment rails such as New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Atchison, speculative rails such as St. Paul preferred, M. K. & T., and Erie, utilities such as Engineers Public Service, National Power and Light, and Consolidated Gas, and industrials such as Nash Motor, Spicer, Goodyear and Endicott Johnson are recommended. United States Smelting and Island Creek Coal are among definitely attractive issues at current levels.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—It has been many weeks since the market has looked as unsteady as it did today.

Even a 7 per cent rate for money did not help it any. There was no great volume of trading, but the industrial averages closed off over 4 points.

In fact, money was 6 per cent on the outside. The explanation generally given for the weakness was the fear of a discount rate increase. Foreign cables suggested that if sterling does not recover by Tuesday the British bank rate will probably go to 6 per cent. There were rumors here that Boston would raise its rate.

These rumors can have no basis in fact as no one really knows. Our explanation of the decline is that people are simply realizing the effectiveness of federal reserve policy. Even the strongest bulls admit that any expansion on upside would bring its own correction. Consequently some of the professionals are trying out the short side. The number of issues which get any where are in the extreme minority.

We would not be surprised if Union Carbide splits up its stock tomorrow. We understand American Loco earnings have picked up sharply. We hear that Atlantic Refining may offer new stock tomorrow.

We believe that there is something in the various rumors regarding some working agreement between Famous Players and Radio.

Note the close in Anaconda at 151. This is down about 12 points from the high of last week. We warned traders in these letters that the high prices of the week at the time of the refinancing plan would probably prove the top for a long time to come.

We think there is every reason to be more cautious now than ever before and would carry a minimum line of long pull investment stocks only.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—An easier tone in the call money market developed yesterday and may be expected to continue for the next few days because of the preparations now nearing completion for handling the huge turn-over of funds incident to the government operations on March 15.

On that date government disbursements will greatly exceed receipts as income checks will not be collected until several days after the payment date.

For the present, we would treat the market as a trading proposition, buying only when the list turns heavy and taking profits on the strong spots.

Those who have followed this policy with respect to such issues as Radio, Kennecott, Steel, Bethlehem Steel, National Cash Register, Montgomery-Ward, Union Carbide and other leaders in recent days have found it profitable.

Prospects for a further increase in the prices for copper metal in the near future should serve to revive buying in the copper stocks, and we continue to favor in this group, in addition to Kennecott, Anaconda, Inspiration, Miami and Calumet and Hecla.

Important developments in the affairs of the United States Rubber company are indicated under the DuPon management, and for this reason we continue to take a constructive stand on the stock considered from the long pull viewpoint.

A significant item in the annual report, recently published, is the reserve of $10,000,000 set up out of surplus to provide for the disposition of factories already shut down, and of those which the present management contemplates closing, together with improvement of manufacturing facilities at other plants.

We believe that the establishment of this reserve is the fore-runner of a program calling for consolidation and centralization of manufacturing facilities with accompanying important operating economies.

BLYTH & CO.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—Substantial liquidation came into Monday's market toward the close despite an easier tone in call money.

February building figures were disappointing and this has influenced sentiment adversely.

Attempts to substitute stock for bond financing in building have not been notably successful as yet.

Most other industries are operating at top speed but conservative observers are still somewhat skeptical as to how far momentum will carry into the second half year.

Leading authorities insist nevertheless that at worst only an intermediate downward movement is in sight and that from a moderately long range view point selected stocks can still be bought with assurance of attractive profits. With 1929 earnings of better than $8 a share expected in quarters close to the management, Canada Dry is considered an unusually attractive purchase by some careful analysts.

This is an issue which the weather will shortly begin to favor also. Detroit circles are watching the current brilliant performance of Graham Paige carefully. This is one of the new motor companies which has been setting new records in retail sales as well as in production.

Results of the Graham Brothers' intensive labors in building up the dealer organization are now beginning to be apparent. With earnings of $7.00 or $8.00 a share in sight for 1929 the stock is being quietly accumulated by well informed interests.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

The realizing movement started in Liverpool and spread to this side as soon as the markets were opened.

There was, however, a good volume of fresh buying and market had some fair sized rallies.

The selling, however, became rather pronounced in the late afternoon as results of rumors that the syndicate of large traders which has been working for an advance was taking profits.

Local traders joined in the selling working for a reaction. Market absorbed both classes of selling very well and prices reacted less than $1 a bale.

Buying was encouraged by favorable dry goods news, outlook for unfavorable weather and reports of backwardness of preparation.

Sentiment strongly bullish and the weather and trade news is encouraging operations on that side. Reactions are apt to prove temporary until the weather makes a definite change for the better.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—The market was somewhat reactionary this morning owing to much realizing influenced by lower cables than due, but values received good support on the recession, bulging later in the session, only to decline again as result of free offerings.

New York advised: "Sales of cotton goods have been running in excess of the current output, and shipments are also ahead of production. Activity has been stimulated by a rise in cotton and by the continued needs of converters, printers and the manufacturing trades. Print cloths have sold freely for spot and contract delivery, many contracts extending into June."

More business was done on sheetings for the bag trades and for converting. Cotton duck has been selling more freely and the sales are running slightly ahead of the current production, which averages a 40-hour week schedule in the mills. Cotton duck stocks are more than a half less than a year ago.

There has been a better movement in fine goods for printing and converting and for general dress goods purposes. Some goods are slightly higher and stocks are reduced. There has been a moderate call for automotive products and shipments of goods of this class are large.

While the demand for cotton goods seems to be expanding, there continued a comparatively good demand for raw cotton in the south, sales at reporting markets last Saturday 21,089 bales vs. 10,605 bales for corresponding date last year.

It is reported that Japan imports of American cotton for four months ending with the close of January were 662,000 bales vs. 470,000 for same period last season, yet stocks in warehouses and sheds there January 31 were reported as only 262,000 of American against 287,000 same date last year, in mills 252,000 vs. 248,000. Exports from the United States last week to Japan were 25,355 bales vs. 5,289 for same period last year.

Indications are for rather unsettled weather inland for the immediate future, perhaps showers or rain over much of the belt, whereas dry, warm weather is desired except perhaps in southwest and west Texas, to permit favorable progress of farm work.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—Our market was very steady on the opening despite the weak Liverpool cables and heavy profit-taking. Local sold playing for reaction the buying after the opening was due to indication of more bad weather.

The price advanced to Saturday's close.

The market in the afternoon, however, developed an easier tone easing 20 points under profit-taking. This selling continued the remainder of the day, being absorbed by renewed outside buying prices holding in a narrow range and closing rather easy 20 points down.

With indications of more bad weather expectations of bullish private consumption figures we see little further decline at the moment. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March 10.75; May 10.85.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—There was some natural reaction in today's cotton market. There is no indication, however, of principal longs getting out, and so long as they remain steadfast or buy more cotton, the market should not experience more than temporary dips. Liverpool again refused to meet our advance. The continent was reported good sellers in liquidation. The price of Indian cotton remained, however, steady in Liverpool at 8.75 pence, the high record established recently. This is mentioned as that cotton is the principal competitor of American. Reports over the week-end on business done in the local cloth market were not only good but highly optimistic in indicating continued heavy consumption by domestic mills in the near future.

Thursday the census bureau is due to publish domestic mill consumption for February and the figures are expected to be bullish. They will compare with 668,000 bales in January and 574,000 bales in February, last year. We expect the figures to be greater than those of last year. We believe the market is in a healthy condition for buying on moderate reactions such as occurred this afternoon and may be witnessed early Tuesday morning. May Liverpool due 10.85.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 56

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

D'Arnot, the only son of an aristocratic French family of wealth, was unable to express his gratitude to Tarzan sufficiently. Never could he forget those terrible times among the cannibals when Tarzan had saved him from being eaten alive. Now he was heartbroken at the thought of parting.

Tarzan wished to work his way across the Atlantic. D'Arnot would not consent. He had deposited money to Tarzan's credit and had given him a fine French motor car. Making him promise to return to Paris, d'Arnot reluctantly bid him adieu and wished him "Bon voyage" as Tarzan boarded the great liner.

The handsome "Monsieur Tarzan" was a great favorite during the voyage. One morning as he watched the dancing spray, he heard a cry "Man overboard," and saw a youth slip to the dark waters below. Quick as a flash Tarzan dived after, clasping him almost before the waters closed over them.

Tarzan became the idol of the ship. It happened that the rescued boy's grateful parents knew Jane's father. And so Tarzan easily found his way. The day after docking, a big black car stopped at the modest home and a black-haired giant leaped happily up the porch.

Our old friend Esmeralda opened the door. "If 'tain't the ape-man," she cried, and as usual was about to faint, but excitement prevented her. He learned that "Miss Jane had just gone up north to be married." It needed no further incentive to speed Tarzan over the miles toward Clayton's camp.

RADIO-ING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

A fat ferry boat slid from its slip in New York and headed out over the dark Hudson. Standing almost alone on the stern was a pretty girl. Suddenly she stepped overboard. The alarm spread quickly through the boat, which reversed its powerful engines as a man dove into the water and caught the drowning girl. The two were hauled aboard and the girl taken to a hospital in Jersey City.

This is the prologue of a dramatic radio presentation of the "Small Timer," to be broadcast over Eveready hour this evening at 8 o'clock over WSB and the N. B. C. system.

It all happened because an impresario didn't think the pretty girl's voice quite good enough for opera. Seeing no future after years of hard study, the girl tried the shortest way out. The man who rescues her from the river turns out to be the "small timer," a vaudeville artist playing the small houses 'way out yonder.

ROSALINE GREENE

After her premeditated plunge in the Hudson, the girls comes to in the hospital and the first thing she sees is a big basket of flowers from her rescuer. Finally he calls to see her and they become fast friends. He persuades her that life is a question of viewpoint; that it is not only livable but can be happy. This happiness they find when they marry, form the vaudeville team of Merrill & Callahan and become troupers.

Their first appearance as a team is the occasion for the production of a whole vaudeville show over the Eveready hour. Not only Merrill & Callahan, but the trained seals and Leonardo, who, believe it or not, sticks his head in the mouth of a lion and gets it out again.

Jack MacBryde, himself a vaudevillian, and later star of several Broadway productions, has been especially engaged to take the part of the "small timer." Rosaline Greene, radio's first leading lady will be the disappointed singer who later finds her metier is vaudeville. A large company of Eveready hour artists will reproduce the entire vaudeville show, the music for which will be played by the Eveready orchestra, Nathaniel Shilkrit conducting.

The suppressed fire of the ardent Spanish spirit will be reflected in "Tango Languido" composed by Godfrey Ludlow, celebrated violinists, and played by him on the Stromberg-Carlson program tonight through WSB and the National Broadcasting company stations from 7 to 7:30 o'clock. Besides this violin selection, there will be guitar, saxophone, and vibraphone solos and a variety of numbers by the male quartet. "Katinka," from the enjoyable operetta, "Allah's Holiday," is one of the sprightly songs that will be sung by the quartet.

Memory's Treasure Chest .... Ensemble
Katinka .... Quartet
Come Back to Erin .... Guitar Solo
My Buddy .... Quartet
Uncle Ned .... Quartet
Dear Old Pal of Mine .... Vibraphone Solo
Honey That I Love So Well .... Quartet
Tango Languido .... Violin Solo
Wait for the Wagon .... Quartet

Paul Whiteman will ask the advice of the radio audience in helping him select his favorite girl in the program that the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman hour will present over the Columbia system tonight at 8 o'clock.

The difficulties of Mr. Whiteman's problem are shown in the third group which he is presenting. This is a medley waltz group, including first, "Marie," then "Jeannine," then "Angeline" and finishing with the heartfelt query "What'll I Do."

Several additional groups will consist of music that is typically Whiteman and that stands for the best that is to be found in the field of jazz. One group of old favorites will include "Whispering," "Japanese Sandman," "Avalon" and "Till We Meet Again," all numbers that were made famous by the "King of Jazz."

Many of the current musical hits will be played in this hour, among which may be heard "How About Me," "Doin' the Raccoon," "Red, Red Rose" and "Don't Hold Anything."

Rising Mercury Slated to Bring Showers Today

Rising temperature today will make it a possibility for Atlanta to have a few showers later on this afternoon, according to the forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local bureau chief, who was quite apologetic for being forced to predict "probable precipitation."

The outlook for the week as seen by the Washington bureau calls for fair weather followed by showers along the middle of the week. The temperature is expected to warm up for a while and to drop off after the predicted rains.

After Monday had gotten off to a rather chill start, with a minimum temperature of 2 degrees above freezing, Old Sol did his stuff in the most approved manner and produced a maximum for the day of 58 degrees. Today's bottom figure will be about 44, Mr. von Herrmann thinks, while a rise to about 65 is expected during the day.

Flood conditions on the Flint and Chattahoochee rivers, he said, were much improved, while the Apalachicola likely will remain above flood stages for five or six more days. Practically all river stations reported a drop Monday, with the highest points being at Albany and Bainbridge.

MORE BEDS HELP LESSEN CONGESTION IN CITY HOSPITAL

Congestion at Grady hospital was relieved in part Monday by placing 33 new beds in various wards of the establishment. Eight beds were alloted to the baby ward on the roof of the main building, 17 were placed in the other white wards while eight were distributed in the adult and baby wards on the negro side.

DR. SELECMAN SPEAKS

Will Make Address Today on "Atonement."

With the argument that the man we know as Jesus of Nazareth was something more than a good man to have come down through the years influencing our every act today Dr. Charles Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, of Dallas, Texas, opened the fourth of the six weeks' series of union meetings at the Baptist Tabernacle.

Dr. Selecman stated that the man Christ was unknown outside a little strip of land perhaps 50 miles wide and perhaps 100 miles long at the time he actually walked the earth.

Dr. Selecman will talk today on "Atonement" and Wednesday on the "Resurrection."

Representatives of the National Carbon company from nine states will gather in Atlanta today to attend the southeastern sales conference to be held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, D. J. Calkins, of the Atlanta office of the National Carbon company, announced Monday. The conference will open this morning and continue for four days.

A number of the principal officers of the large corporation will visit Atlanta during the conference to address the sales session of the company's southeastern representatives.

P. T. Hubbard, vice president and general manager; E. G. Clemenson, assistant general sales manager; E. E. Horine, of the radio department, and T. C. Pfenning, of the advertising department, all of the New York offices, are scheduled to arrive in Atlanta today to attend the meeting. In addition to these New York executives, A. E. Holmes, of N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, advertising agency that directs the National Carbon company's advertising, will be present. Addresses will be made by these executives during the course of the conference, outlining the aims of their respective departments.

D. J. Calkins and W. H. Haile, of the Atlanta offices, will be in charge of the conference.

RADIO DEMAND SEEN IN REPORT BY WESTINGHOUSE

Increase in the demand for radio products and industrial motor apparatus was reflected in the nearly $20,000,000 excess in orders received by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company during the last nine months of 1928 over the same period of the previous year, it is revealed in the annual report just published by that concern.

The huge gain in orders is attributed by officers of the corporation largely to growth of the company's radio business and the increased demand for electrical motors for industrial use. According to the report, sales billed during the nine-month period totaled $144,432,870.28, resulting in a net income of $16,695,705.63.

The annual statement, which was prepared for the 1929 stockholders' meeting, scheduled for April 10, is based on a nine months' period due to a readjustment of the company's fiscal year, which was changed last year to coincide with the calendar year.

Principal acquisitions in the corporation's expansion between April 1, 1928, and January 1, 1929, included complete purchase of Kaestner and Hecht company, of Chicago, of which a part interest already was held by Westinghouse, and merger of the R. D. Nuttall company, manufacturing gears and pinions. The Nuttall company is being operated now as the Nuttall Works of the Westinghouse corporation, while the name of the Kaestner and Hecht company has been changed to the Westinghouse Electric Elevator company.

REGENCY OF WALES IS BRITISH TOPIC

Government Officials Desire To Avoid It If Possible.

London, March 11.—(AP)—Whether H. R. H. the Prince of Wales would be the second regent to act for the British crown since 1800, was the chief topic of today in parliamentary lobbies, government legal circles and the newspaper world.

So far, the only authoritative information is that the whole constitutional question arising from the king's illness as it affects the forthcoming general election, is under consideration by legal advisors of the government.

Upon the progress of his majesty's recovery, which is not satisfactory, depends the whole matter of the necessity of a regency. Doctors attending the king have warned the public that his majesty must avoid any sustained effort of body or mind.

Official opinion is that the regency bill is not as much a matter of immediate concern as London newspapers indicate.

It is stated that it would require little time to put the measure through parliament, even at the last moment before its dissolution on the eve of general elections, so that decision as to the necessity of a regency could wait upon the king's condition a month hence.

In some government quarters there is a definite desire to avoid the regency if possible because of the affect it is likely to have on the public mind as to his majesty's health.

Legal advisors are studying various alternatives for dealing with constitutional problems involved, but should the regency be unavoidable it is likely to be of temporary character, with the Prince of Wales instead of the queen acting for the monarch during the period of stress and strain of the delicate political situation which may arise from the general election.

This situation will be particularly thorny if, as is forecast, neither conservatives, liberals nor laborites emerge with a definite majority in the house of commons. In the event of a real deadlock between any two parties or coalitions of parties, the king, or the Prince of Wales as his regent, would have to decide to which party should be given power.

COMMERCE SECRETARY TO MAKE FEW CHANGES

Lamont States There Will Be No Change in Policy.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Secretary Lamont, of the commerce department, announced today that although he must fill several major vacancies in his executive staff, he would endeavor to conduct the department without change of policy.

"This branch of the government was under President Hoover's direct personal control for nearly eight years," the secretary said, "and it behooves his successor to move very slowly in considering any changes and to take ample time to study the situation. The first assistant secretary is now Postmaster General Brown, but for the time being the post will be left vacant and I hope to have Mr. Brown's counsel on matters which he formerly directed.

"William P. MacCracken, assistant secretary for aeronautics, feels that he cannot much longer afford to devote his efforts to the public and has asked to be relieved, but there is no emergency. I understand that there are vacancies on the radio commission to fill, with which this department is concerned, though the matter is probably directly up to the president.

"Dr. Julius Klein, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, is in Europe in the line of departmental duty inspecting trade promotion offices, and I hope to be able to urge his retention of his post after his return. The rest of my duty in the next few weeks will lie along the lines of familiarizing myself with the department and its ramifications and connections."

DROWNED BRIDGE WORKER'S BODY FOUND; 5 MISSING

Charleston, W. Va., March 11.—(AP) The body of one of six bridge workers drowned Saturday when a cable supporting a bucket in which they were riding across Kanawha river collapsed has been recovered today. Search for others continued as an inquest was planned today.

The body recovered was that of R. E. Balyard, of Gauley Bridge, W. Va. The bodies of H. A. Squirer, of Danville, Va., M. T. Tokker, of Henderson, N. C.; Charles Anderson, of Danville, Va.; George Nicholson, of Western Union, W. Va., and E. C. Lacy, of High Point, N. C., still are missing.

W. F. Morrison, supervising engineer, and George Hunter, superintendent of construction of the bridge, being built by the Atlantic Bridge company, were held under bond pending investigation. Police charged the collapse of the cable resulted from improperly hardened bedding for the cable anchor.

SUPREME COURT REVERSES DECISION IN CHINESE CASE

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—The supreme court today reversed the judgment of the Mississippi courts, which refused to permit a Chinese child to attend a public school for white children, and directed that the state courts dismiss the case as moot.

Counsel for the state told the court in the argument of the case that the student had passed the age of 21 and there was therefore no question requiring consideration. The state laws provide schools only for those between the ages of 5 and 21.

Joe Tin Lun was excluded from a public school for white children in the Dublin consolidated school district in Coahoma county, Mississippi. His father protested but the school authorities were sustained by the state courts in their ruling that the Chinese youth must attend a school for colored children. The father sought a review by the highest court on the ground that he was being deprived of rights guaranteed him by the constitution.

BLIMP PERCHES IN TREE; DESCENDS INTO BAY; 4 SAVED

Norfolk, Va., March 11.—(AP)—After perching on a tree near Buckroe Beach and getting free, the army dirigible TC-10 today made a forced descent on Chespeake bay, near Back River. The crew of four, with Lieutenant Colonel J. W. Wuest, executive officer at Langley field, in command, was rescued, dry and unhurt and the crippled ship having lost much of the valuable helium gas, with which it was filled.

The craft, one of those that took part in the inaugural parade in Washington last week-end and was battered by storms before reaching its base here, was on a test flight to determine if it had been damaged.

It was believed that a patch on the bag had become loosened during the storm and that while in the air today enough gas escaped to force it down.

Show stock from the finest poultry farms in the southwest were housed in the poultry building. About 150 automobiles were in the automobile exhibition hall.
